THE LATE,
And much admired Play, CALLED
Pericles, Prince of Tyre.

With the true Relation of the whole Hi- ſtory, aduentures, and fortunes of the ſayd Prince:

Written by WILL. SHAKESPEARE.

LONDON,
Printed by I. N. for R. B. and are to be ſould at his ſhop in Cheapſide, at the ſigne of the Bible. 1630.

The Hiſtory Of

Pericles, Prince of Tyre.

Enter Gower.

TO ſing a ſong that old was ſung,
From aſhes, ancient Gower is come,
Aſſuming mans infirmities,
To glad your eare, and pleaſe your eies;
It hath beene ſung at Feſtiuals,
On Ember eues, and holy-daies
And Lords and Ladies in their liues,
Haue read it for reſtoratiues:
The purchaſe is to make men glorious.
Et bonum quo Antiquius eo melius:
If you, borne in theſe latter times,
When wits more ripe, accept my Rimes:
And that to heare an old man ſing,
May to your wiſhes pleaſure bring
I life would wiſh, and might
Waſte it for you like Taper-light.
This Antioch, then, Antiochus the great,
Built vp this City for his chiefeſt ſeate;
The faireſt in all Syria.
I tell you what mine Authors ſay:
This King vnto him tooke a peere,
Who died, and left a female heire,
So buckſome, blithe, and full of face,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

As heauen had lent her all his grace:
With whom the Father liking tooke,
And her to inceſt did prouoke:
Bad child, worſe father, to entice his owne.
To euill ſhould be done by none:
But cuſtome, what they did begin,
Was with long vſe, accounted no ſinne,
The beauty of this ſinfull Dame,
Made many Princes thether frame,
To ſeeke her as a bed-fellow,
In marriage pleaſures, play-fellow:
Which to preuent, he made a Law,
To keepe her ſtill and men in awe,
That who ſo askt her for his wife,
His Riddle told not, loſt his life:
So for her many of wight did die,
As yon grim lookes do teſtifie.
What enſues to the iudgement of your eye,
I giue my cauſe, who beſt can iuſtifie. Exit.

Enter Antiochus, Prince Pericles, and followers.

Ant. Yong Prince of Tyre, you haue at large receiued.
The danger of the taske you vndertake.

Per I haue (Antiochus) and with a ſoule emboldned with the glory of her praiſe, thinke death no hazard,
In this enterprize.

Ant. Muſicke bring in our daughter, cloathed like a bride
For embracements, euen of Ioue himſelfe;
At whoſe conception, till Lucina reigned,
Nature this dowry gaue, to glad her preſence,
The Senate houſe of Planets all did ſit.
To knit in her this beſt perfections

Enter Antiochus Daughter.

Per. See where ſhe comes, apparelled like the Spring,
Graces her ſubiects, and her though the King,
Of euery vertue giues renowne to men

Her

Her face the booke of praiſes, where is read,
Nothing but curious pleaſures, as from thence Sorrow were euer rackt, and teſty wrath
Could neuer be her milde companion.
You Gods that made me man, and ſway in loue
That haue enflam'd deſire in my breſt,
To taſte the fruite of yon celeſtiall tree,
[Or die in the aduenture] be my helpes,
As I am ſonne and ſeruant to your will,
To compaſſe ſuch a bondleſſe happineſſe.

Anti. Prince Pericles.

Per. That would be ſonne to great Antiochus

Ant. Before thee ſtands this faire Heſperides,
With golden fruit, but dangerous to be toucht:
For death like dragons here affright thee hard,
Her face like heauen, intices thee to view
Her countleſſe glory, which deſert muſt gaine;
And which without deſert becauſe thine eye
Preſumes to reach, all the whole heape muſt die,
Yon ſometimes famous Princes like thy ſelfe,
Drawne by report, aduenturous by deſire,
Tell thee with ſpeechleſſe tongues, and ſemblance pale,
That without couering, ſaue yon field of ſtarres,
Heere they ſtand martyrs, ſlaine in Cupids warres:
And with dead cheekes aduiſe thee to deſiſt,
For going on death's net, whom none reſiſt.

Per. Antiochus I thanke thee, who hath taught
My fraile mortallity to know it ſelfe,
And by thoſe fearefull obiects to prepare
This body, like to them, to what I muſt:
For death remembred, ſhould be like a Myrrour
Who tels vs, life's but breath, to truſt it error:
Ile make my will then, and as ſicke men do,
Who know the world, ſee heauen, but feeling woe,
Gripe not at earthly ioyes, as erſt they did;
So I bequeath a happy peace to you,
And all good men, as euery Prince ſhould do

My

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

My riches to the earth from whence they came:
But my vnsuppos'd fire of Loue to you,
Thus ready for the way of life or death,
I waite the sharpest blow [Antiochus]
Scorning aduice; read the conclusion then:
Which read and not expounded, tis decreed,
As these before, thou thy selfe shall bleed.

Daugh. Of all said yet, thou proue prosperous,
Of all said yet, I wish thee happinesse.

Per. Like a bold Champion I assume the Listes,
Nor aske aduice of any other thought,
But faithfullnesse and courage.

The Riddle.

I am no Viper, yet I feede
On mothers flesh which did me breed:
I sought a husband in which labour,
I found that kindnesse in a father.
Hee's father, sonne, and husband milde,
I Mother, Wife, and yet his Childe:
How they may be, and yet in two.
As you will liue, resolue it you.

Sharpe physicke is the last; but O you powers!
That giues heauen countles eyes to view mens acts,
Why cloud they not their sights perpetually,
If this be true, which makes mee pale to reade it,
Faire glasse of light, I lou'd you and could still,
Were not this glorious Casket stor'd with ill:
But I must tell you, now my thoughts reuolt,
For hee's no man on whom perfections wait
That knowing sinne within, will touch the gate:
You are a faire Vyoll, and your sence the strings,
Who fingerd to make man his lawfull musicke,
Would draw heauen downe, and all the Gods to hearken,
But being plaid vpon before your time,
Hell onely daunceth at so harsh a chime:

Good

Good sooth, I care not for you.

Anti, Prince Pericles, touch not vpon thy life,
For that's an article within our Law,
As daugerous as the rest your times expirde
Either expound now, or receiue your sentence.

Peri. Great King,
Few loue to heare the sinnes they loue to acte,
T, would braid your selfe too meane for me to tell it:
Who hath a booke of all that Monarchs do,
Hee's more secure to keepe it shut, then shewne:
For vice repeated, is like the wandring winde,
Blowes dust in others eies, to spread it selfe;
And yet the end of all is bought thus deare,
The breath is gone, and the sore eies see cleare.
To stop the aire would hurt them the blinde Mole cast
Copt hils toward heauen, to tell the earth is throng'd
By mans oppression, and the poore worme doth die for't
Kings are earths Gods: in vice their law's their will,
And if I*oue* stray, who dares say, I*oue* doth ill.
It is enough you know, and it is fit;
What being more knowne, growes worse to smother it.
All loue the wombe that their being bred,
Then giue my tongue like leaue to loue my head.

Ant. Heauen that I had it; he has found the meaning,
But I will gloze with him. Young Prince of Tyre,
Though by the tenour of your strict edict,
Your exposition misinterpreing,
We might proceed to counsel of your daies;
Yet hope, succeeding from so faire a tree,
As your faire selfe, doth tune vs otherwise:
Forty daies longer we do respite you,
If by which time our secret be vndone,
This mercy shewes wee'l ioy in such a sonne:
And vntill then, your entertaine shall be
As doth befit our honour, and your worth. Exit

Manet Pericles solus

Per. How conntesie would seeme to couer sinne,

Whe

When what is done is like an hipocrite,
The which is good in nothing but in sight,
If it be true that I interpret false,
Then were it certaine you were not so bad,
As with foule Incest to abuse your soule:
Where now you both a father and a sonne,
By your vntimely clasping with your childe,
(Which pleasures fits an husband, not a father)
And she an eater of her mothers flesh,
By the defiling of her parents bed,
And both like serpents are, who though they feed
On sweetest flowers, yet they poyson breed
Antioch farewell, for wisedome sees those men
Blush not in actions blacker then the night,
Will shew no course to keepe them from the light.
One sinne [I know] another doth prouoke:
Murders as neere to lust, as flame to smoake:
Poyson and treason are the hands of sinne,
I, and the Targets to put off the shame,
Then least my life be cropt to keepe you cleare,
By flight Ile shun the danger which I feare.

Exit.

Enter Antiochus.

Anti. He hath found the meaning,
For which we meane to haue his head,
He must not liue to trumpet forth my infamy,
Nor tell the world, Antioch doth sinne
In such a loathed manner,
And therefore instantly this Prince must die,
For by his fall, my honour must keepe hie.
Who attends vs there?

Enter Thaliard.

Thal. Doth your highnesse call?

Anti. Thaliard you are of our Chamber,
And our minde partakes her priuate actions
To your secresie; and for your faithfulnesse
We will aduance you Thaliard;

Behold,

Behold, heer's poyson and heer's gold,
We hate the Prince of Tyre, and thou must kill him,
It fits thee not to aske the reason why?
Because we bid it; say is it done?

Thal. My Lord, tis done.

Enter a Messenger.

Ant. Enough. Let your breath coole your selfe, telling your haste.

Mess. My Lord Prince Pericles is fled.

Ant. As thou wilt liue, flye after, and like an arrow shot from a well experient Archer hitts the marke his eye doth leuell it: so do thou never returne, vnlesse thou say, Prince Pericles is dead.

Thal. My Lord, if I can get him within my pistols length, Ile make him sure enough: so farewell to your highnesse.

Ant. Thaliard adieu, till Pericles be dead;
My heart can lend no succour to my head. Exit.

Enter Pericles with his Lords.

Per. Let none disturbe vs:
Why should this change of thoughts,
The sad companion dull-eyde melancholy,
By me so vsed, a guest as not an houre,
In the dayes glorious walke or peacefull night,
The toombe where griefe should sleepe, can breed me quiet,
Here pleasures court mine eyes, and mine eyes shun them,
And danger which I feard, is at Antioch,
Whose arme seemes farre too short to hit me here,
Yet neuer pleasures art can ioy my spirits,
Nor yet the other distance comfort me:
Then it is thus, that passions of the minde,
That haue their first conception by mis-dread,
Haue after nourishment and life by care;
And what was first but feare, what might be done,
Growes elder now, and cares it be not done.
And so with me; the great Antiochus,
Gainst whom I am too little to contend,

Since

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Since hee's so great, can make his will his acte,
Will thinke t[illegible] speaking, though I sweare to silence,
Nor bootes it mee to say I honour,
If he suspect I may dishonour him.
And what may make him blush in being knowne,
With hostile forces hee'l orespread the land,
And with the stint of warre will looke so huge,
Amazement shall driue courage from the state;
Our men bee vanquisht, ere they do resist,
And subiects punisht that neuer thought offeuce,
Which care of them, not pity of my selfe,
Who once no more but as the topp's of trees,
Which fence the rootes they grow by, and defend them,
Make both my body pine, and my soule languish,
And punnish that before that he would punish.

1. Lord. Ioy and all comfort in your sacred brest.

2. Lord. And keepe your minde till ye returne to vs peacefull and comfortable.

Hell. Peace, peace, and giue experience tongue:
They do abuse the King that flatter him,
For flattery is the Bellowes blowes vp sin,
The thing the which is flattered but a sparke,
To which that sparke giues heart and strouger growing,
Whereas reproofe obedient and in order,
Fits Kings as they are men, for they may erre,
When Signior sooth here doth proclaime peace,
He flatters you, and makes warre vpon your life.
Prince pardon me, or strike me if you please.
I cannot be much lower then my knees.

Per. All leaue vs else: but let your cares ore-looke
What shipping and what lading in our Hauen,
And then returne to vs: Helicanus thou hast
Moou'd vs: what seest thou in our lookes?

Hell. An angry, brow dread Lord.

Per. If there be such a dart in Princes frownes,
How durst thy tongue moue anger to our face?

Hell. How dares the planets looke vp to heauen,
From whence they haue their nourishment?

Per. Thou knowest I haue power to take thy life from thee.

Hell. I haue grouud the axe my selfe,
Do you but strike the blow.

Per. Rise, prethee rise, sit dowre, thou art no flatterer,
I thanke thee for it, and heauen forbid,
That Kings should let their eares heare their faults hid Fit Councellor, and seruant for a Prince, who by thy wisedome makes a Prince thy seruant,
what wouldst thou haue me do?

Hell. To beare with patience such grieses,
As your selfe do lay vpon your selfe,

Per. Thou speakest like a Physition, Helicanus
That ministers a portion vnto me,
That thou wouldst tremble to receiue the selfe.
Attend me then; I went to Antioch,
whereas thou knowst (against the face of death)
I sought the purchase of a glorious beauty,
From whence an issue I might propigate,
Are armes to Princes, and bring ioyes to Subiects:
Her face was to mine eye beyond all wonder,
The rest (harke in thine eare (as blacke as incest,
Which by my knowledge found, the sinfull father,
Seem'd not to strike, but smoothe: But thou knowst this,
Tis time to feare, when tyrants seeme to kisse, which feare so grew in me I hither fled
Vnder the houering of a careful night,
Who seem'd my good Protector: and being here,
Bethought what was past, what might succeed;
I knew him tyrannous, and tyrants feare
Decrease not, but grow faster then the yeares:
And should he thinke, as no doubt he doth,
That I should open to the listening ayre,
How many worthy Princes bloud were shed,
To keepe his bed of blackuesse vnlaid o,
To lop that doubt, hee'l fill this Land with armes,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

And make pretence of wrong that I haue done him,
When all for mine, if I may call offence,
Must feele warres blow, who feares not innocence:
Which loue to all, of which thy selfe art one,
Who now reprouedst me for it.

Hell. Alasse sir.

Per. Drew sleepe out of mine eyes, blood from my cheekes,
Musing in my minde, with thousand doubts
How I might stope there tempest ere it came,
And finding little comfort to releeue them,
I thought it princely charity to grieue them.

Hell. Well my Lord, since you haue giuen me leaue to speake
Freely will I speake, Antiochus you feare,
And iustly too I thinke you feare the tyrant,
Who eyther by publike warre, or priuate treason,
Will take away your life: therefore my Lord, goe trauell for a while, till that his rage and anger be forgot, or till the Destinies do cut his thred of life: your Rule direct to any, if vnto me, day serue not light more faithfull then Ile be.

Per. I do not doubt thy faith,
But should he wrong my liberties in my absence?

Hell. We'l mingle our bloods together in the earth,
From whence wee had our being, and our birth.

Per. Tyre, I now looke from thee then, and to Tharsus
Intend my trauaile, where Ile heare from thee;
And by whose Letters Ile dispose my selfe,
The care I had and haue of Subiects good,
On thee I lay, whose wisedomes strength can beare it,
Ile take thy word for faith not aske thine oath,
who shuns not to breake one, will cracke both.
But in our orbes we liue so round and safe,
That time of both this truth shall neere conuince,
Thou shewest a subiects shine, I a true prince. Exit.

Enter Thaliard solus.

Thal. So, this is Tyre, and this is the Court, heere must I kill King Pericles, and if I do it not, I am sure to be hanged at home: it it is dangerous.

Well, I perceiue he was a wise fellow, and had good discretion, that being bid to aske what hee would of the King, desired hee might know none of his secrets. Now do I see hee had some reason for it: for if a King bid a man bee a villaine, hee is bound by the indenture of his oath to be one.
Husht heere comes the Lords of Tyre.

Enter Helicanus. Escanes, with other Lords of Tyre.

Hell. You shall not need, my fellow-Peeres of Tyre, further to question me of your Kings departure: his sealed Commission left in trust with me, doth speake sufficiently, hee's gone to trauell.

Thal. How? the King gone?

Hell. If further yet you will bee satisfied, (why as it were vnlicenc'd of your loues) he would depart? Ile giue some light vnto you: Being at Antioch.

Thal. What from Antioch,

Hell. Royall Antioch (on what cause I know not) tooke some displeasure at him, at least he iudged so: and doubting that hee had erred or sinned, to shew his sorrow, hee would correct himselfe; so putts himselfe vnto the ship-mans toyle, with whom each minute threatens life or death.

Thal. Well I perceiue I shall not bee hanged now, although I would, but since hee's gone, the Kings Seas must please: hee scapte the Land, to perish at the Sea: Ile present my selfe, Peace to the Lords of Tyre.

Hell. Lord Thaliard from Antiochus is welcome.

Thal. From him I come with message vnto Princely Pericles; but since my landing I haue vnderstood, your Lord hath betooke himselfe to vnknowne trauailes, my message must returne from whence it came.

Hell. We haue no reason to desire it, commended to our Master, not to vs; yet ere you shall depart, this we desire as friends to Antioch, we may feast in Tyre. Exeunt.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Enter Cleon the Gouernor of Tharſus, with his wife and others.

Cleon. My Dioniſia, ſhall we reſt vs here,
And by relating tales of others griefes,
See if t'will teach vs to forget our owne;
Dion. That were to blow at fire in hope to quench it,
For who digs hils becauſe they do aſpire,
Throwes downe one Mountaine to caſt vp a higher:
O my diſtreſſed Lord, euen ſuch our griefes are,
Here they are but felt, and ſeene with miſchiefes eies,
But like to Groues being topt, they higher riſe.
Cleon. O Dioniza,
Who wanteth food, and will not ſay he wants it,
Or can conceale his hunger till he famiſh?
Our tongues and ſorrowes do ſound deepe:
Our woes into the ayre, our eyes to weepe,
Till tongues fetch breath that may proclaime
Them louder, that if heauen ſlumber, while
Their creatures want, they may awake
Their helpers to comfort them.
Ile then diſcourſe our woes felt ſeuerall yeares,
And wanting breath to ſpeake, helpe me with teares,
Dion. Ile do my beſt Sir.
Cleon. This Tharſus, ore which I haue the gouernment,
A Citty, on whom plenty held full hand:
For riches ſtrewd her ſelfe euen in the ſtreetes,
Whoſe towers bore heads ſo high, they kiſt the clouds,
And ſtrangers nere beheld, but wondred at,
Whoſe men and dames ſo ietted and adorn'd,
Like one anothers glaſſe to trim them by:
There tables were ſtor'd full, to glad the ſight,
And not ſo much to feede on as delight,
All pouerty was ſcornd, and pride ſo great,
The name of helpe grew odious to repeat.
Dion. Oh tis true.
Cleon. But ſee what heauen can do by this our change:

Theſe mouthes, who but of late, earth, ſea, and ayre,
Weare all too little to content and pleaſe,
Although they gaue their creatures in abundance:
As houſes are defiled for want of vſe.
They are now ſtaru'd for want of exerciſe;
Theſe pallats, who not yet to ſauers yonger,
Muſt haue inuentions to delight the taſte,
Would now be glad of bread, and beg for it:
Theſe mothers, who to nouzell vp their babes,
Thought nought too curious, are reddy now
To eate thoſe little darlings whom they loued,
So ſharpe are hungers teeth, that man and wife,
Draw lots who firſt ſhall dye to lengthen life.
Here ſtands a Lord, and there a Lady weeping,
Heere many ſinke, yet thoſe that ſee them fall,
Haue ſcarſe ſtrength to giue them buriall.
Is not this true?
Dion. Our cheekes and hollow eyes do witneſſe it.
Cleon. O let thoſe Cities that of plenties cup.
And her proſperities ſo largely taſte,
With their ſuperfluous ryots heare theſe teates,
The miſery of Tharſus may be theirs.

Enter a Lord.

Lord. Wher's the Lord Gouernor?
Cleon. Here, ſpeake out thy ſorrowes, which thou bring'ſt in haſte, for comfort is to farre for vs to expect.
Lord. We haue deſcried vpon our neigbouring ſhore,
A portly ſay'e of ſhips make hither ward.
Cleon. I thought as much.
One ſorrow neuer comes but brings an heyre,
That may ſucceed as his inheritour:
And ſo in ours: ſome neighbouring Nation,
Taking aduantage of our miſery,
That ſtuft the hollow veſſels with there power,
To beare vs downe the which are downe already,
And make a conqueſt of vnhappy me,
Whereas no glory is got to ouercome.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Lord. That's the least feare.
For by the semblance of their white flags dispaird, they bring vs
Peace, and come to vs as faucurours, not as foes.
Cleon. Thou speak'st like hymmes vntuter'd to repeat
Who makes the fairest shew, meanes most deceit.
But bring they what they will, and what they can,
What need we feare, the ground's the lowest,
And we are halfe way there: Goe tell their Generall wee attend him heere to know for what he comes, and whence he comes, &
What he craues.
Lord. I goe my Lord.
Cleon. Welcome is peace, if he on peace consist;
If warres we are vnable to resist.

Enter Pericles with attendants.

Per. Lord Gouernor, for so we heare you are,
Let not our ships and number of our men.
Be like a Beacon fired, to amaze your eyes,
We haue heard your miseries as farre as Tyre.
And seene the desolation of your streetes,
Nor come we to adde sorrow to your teares,
But to release them of their heauy load,
And these our ships you happily may thinke,
Are like the Troian horse, was stuft within
With bloody veines expecting ouerthrow,
Are stor'd with corne, to make your needy bread,
And gine them life, whom hunger starv'd halfe dead.
Omnes. The Gods of Greece protect you,
And wee'l pray for you.
Per. Arise I pray you, arise; wee doe not looke for reuerence, but for loue and barborage for our selfe, our ships, and men.
Cleon. The which when any shall not gratifie.
Or pay you with vnthankfulnesse in thought,
Be it our wiues, our children, or our selues,
The curse of heauen and men succeed their euils:
Till when, the which (I hope) shall nere be seene:
Your Grace is welcome to our Towne and vs.

Per.

Per. Which welcome wee'l accept, feast here a while,
Vntill our Stars that frowne, lend vs a smile. Exeunt

Enter Gower.

Gower. Here haue you seene a mighty King,
His child I wis to incestе bring:
A better Prince and benigne Lord,
That will proue awfull both in deed and word.
Be quiet then, as men should be,
Till he hath past necessity:
Ile shew you those in troubles raigne,
Losing a myte, a Mountaine gaine:
The good in conuersation,
To whom I giue my benizon,
Is still at Tharsus, where each man
Thinks all is writ he spoken can:
And to remember what he does,
Build his Statue to make him glorious
But tydings to the contrary,
Are brought t'your eyes, what need speake I

Dumbe Shew,

Enter at one doore Pericles talking with Cleon, all the Traine with them Enter at another doore, a Gentleman with a letter to Pericles; Pericles shewes the letter to Cleon, Pericles gines the Messenger a reward, and Knights him,

Exit Pericles at one doore Cleon at another.

Good Helican that staid at home.
Not to eate hony like a Drone,
From others labours; for though he striue
To killen bad keepe good aliue:
And to fulfill his princes desire,
Sau'd one of all that haps in Tyre:
How Thaliard came full bent with sinne,
And had intent to murder him;
And this in Tharsis was not best,
Longer for him to make his rest:

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

He doing so, put foorth to Seas,
Where when men bin, there's sildome ease,
For now the winde begins to blow,
Thunder aboue, and deepes below,
Makes such vnquiet, that the ship
Should house him safe, is wracke and split,
And he (good Prince) hauing all lost,
By waues, from coast is tost: ,
All perishen of man of pelfe,
Ne ought escapen'd but himselfe;
Till fortune tried with doing bad,
Threw him a shore to giue him glad:
And heere he comes; what shall be next.
Pardon old Gower, this long's the Text.

Enter Pericles wet.

Per. Yet ceasse your ire, your angry Stars of heauen
Winde, Raine, and Thunder: Remember earthly man
Is but a substance that must yeeld to you:
And I (as fits my nature) do obey you.
Alasse, the Seas hath cast me on the Rockes,
Washt me from shore to shore. and left my breath
Nothing to thinke on, but ensuing death:
Let it suffice the greatnesse of your powers,
To haue bereft a prince of all his fortunes,
And hauing throwne him from your watry graue,
Here to haue death in peace, is all hee'l craue.

Enter three fishermen,

1. What, to pelch?
2. Ha, come and bring away the Nets.
1. What patch-breech, I say.
3. What say you Master?
1. Looke how thou stirrest now.
Come away or Ile fetch thee with a wannion.
3. Faith Master, I am thinking of the poore men
That were cast away before vs, euen now.

1. Alasse

1. Alasse poore soules, it greeued my heart to heare
What pittifull cries they made to vs, to helpe them,
When (welladay) we could scarsely helpe our selues.
3. Nay Master, said not I as much,
When I saw the Porpas, how he bounst and tumbled?
They say, they are halfe fish, halfe flesh:
a plague on them, they nere come but I looke to be washt
Master, I Marueil how the fishes liue in the Sea?
1. Why as men do a Land,
The great ones eat vp the little ones:
I can compare our rich Misers, to nothing so fitly
As to a Whale; he plaies and tumbles,
Driuing the poore Fry before him,
And at last deuoure them all at a mouthfull.
Such whales haue I heard on a'th land, who neuer leaue gaping, till they swallowed
The whole Parish, Church, Steeple, Bels and all.
Per. A pretty Morall.
3. But Master, if I had beene the Sexton,
I would haue bene that day in the Belfrey.
2. Why man?
3. Because he should haue swallowed me too,
And when I had beene in his belly,
I would haue kept such a iangling of the bels,
That he would neuer haue left,
Till he cast Bels steeple, Church and Parish vp againe:
But if the good King Simonides were of my minde,
Per. Simonides?
3. We would purge the land of these drones,
That rob the Bee of her hony.
Per. How from the fenny subiect of the sea,
These fishers tell the infirmities of men,
And from there watry Empire recollect,
All that may men approue, or men detect,
Peace be at your labour, honest fishermen.
2. Honest, good fellow, what's that, if it be a day fits you,
Search out of the Kalender, and no body looke after it?

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Per. May see the sea hath cast vpon your coast.

2. What a drunken knaue was the sea,
To cast thee in our way.

Per. A man whom both the waters and the winde.
In that vaste tennis-Court, hath made the Ball
For them to play vpon, intreats you pitty him:
He askes of you, that neuer vsde to beg.

1. No friend, cannot you beg?
Heer's them in our Country of Greece.
Gets more with begging then we can do with working

2. Canst thou catch any Fishes then?

Per. I neuer practiz'd it.

2. Nay then thou wilt starue sure; for heere's nothing to be got now-adaies vnlesse thou canst fish for't.

Per. What I haue bene, I haue forgot to know;
But what I am, want teaches me to thinke on,
A man throngd vp with cold, my veines are chill,
And haue no more of life then may suffice
To giue my tongue that heate to aske your helpe:
Which if you shall refuse when I am dead,
For that I am a man, pray see me buried.

1. Die ke- tha, now gods forbid, I haue a gowne heere, come put it on, keepe thee warme: now a fore me a handsome fellow: Come, thou shalt goe home, and wee'l haue flesh for all day, fish for fasting dayes and more; or Puddings and Flap-iacks, and thou shalt be welcome.

Per. I thanke you sir.

2. Harke you my friend, You said you could not beg.

Per. I did but craue.

2. But craue? then Ile turne crauer too,
And so I shall scape whipping.

Per. why, are all your beggers whipt then?

2. Oh not all, my friend, not all: for if all your beggers were whipt I would wish no better office, then to be Beadle. But Master Ile go draw the net.

Per. How well this honest mirth becomes their labour?

1. Hearke you sir, do you know where ye are?

Per.

Per. Not well.

1. Itell you, this is called Pantapoles.
And our King, the good Symonides.

Per The good King Symonides, do you call him?

1. I sir, and he deserues so to be call'd,
For his peaceable raigne, and good gouernment.

Per. He as a happy King, since he gaines from His Subiects, the name of good, by his gouernment.
How farre is his Court distant from this shore?

1. Marry sir, halfe a daies iourney: and Ile tell you, hee hath a faire daughter, and to morrow is her birth-day, and there are Pirnces and Knights come from all parts of the world, to Iust & Turney for her loue.

Per. Were my fortunes equall to my desires,
I could wish to make one there.

1. O sir, things must be as they may: and what a man cannot get, he may lawfully deale for his wiues soule.

Enter the two Fisher-men drawing vp a Net.

2. Helpe, Master, helpe, heere's fish hangs in the Net, like a poore mans right in the law, twill hardly come out. Ha bots. on't, tis come at last, and tis turnd to rusty a Armour.

Per. An Armour, friends, I pray you let me see it.
Thankes Fortune, yet that after all crosses,
Thou giuest me some what to repaire my selfe:
And though it was mine owne part of my heritage
Which my dead father did bequeathe me,
With this strict charge, euen as he left his life:
Keepe it, my Pericles, it hath beene a shield
Twixt me and death; and pointed to this Prayse:
For that it saued me, keepe it in like necessity:
The Which the gods protect thee, Fame may defend thee.
It kept Where I kept, I so dearely loued it.
Till the rough Seas (that spares not any man)
Tooke it in rage, though calm'd hath giuen't againe
I thanke thee for t, my shipwrack now's no ill,
Since I haue here my fathers gift in's will.

1. What

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

what meane you sir?

Per. To beg of you (kinde friends) this coate of worth
For it was sometime Target to a King,
I know it by this marke: he loued me dearely:
And for his sake I wish the hauing of it:
And that you'd guide me to your Soueraigns Court,
Where with it I may appeare a Gentleman:
And if that euer my low fortune's better
Ile pay your bounties; til then rest your debter.

1. Why wilt thou turney for the Lady?

Per. Ile shew the vertue I haue borne in Armes,

1. why take it and the gods giue thee good an't.

2. But hearke you my friend, t'was me that made vp this garment through the rough seames of the waters: there are certaine condolements, certaine vailes; I hope sir, if you thriue, you'l remember from whence you had them.

Per. Beleeue it I will:
By your furtherance I am cloathd in Steele,
And spight of all the rupture of the sea,
This Iewell holds his building on my arme:
Vnto thy value I will mount my selfe.
Vpon a Courser, whose delight steps,
Shall make the gazer ioy to see him tread;
Only (my friend) I yet am vnprouided of a payre of Base.

2. Wee'l sure prouide, thou shalt haue
My best gowne to make thee a paire;
And Ile bring thee to the Court my selfe.

Per. Then honour be but a Goale to my wil,
this day Ile rise, or else adde ill, to ill.

Enter Simenides with attendants and Thaisa.

King. Are the Knights ready to begin the Triumph?

1. Lord. They are my Liege, and stay your comming
To present themselues.

King. Returne them, we are ready, and our daughter heere.
In honour of whose birth, these triumphs are,
Sits here like beauties children whom Nature gat

For

For men to see, and seeing wonder at.

Thal. It pleaseth you (my royall father) to expresse
My commendations great, whose merites lesse

King. It's fit it should be so; for Princes are
A modell which heauen makes like it selfe.
As Iewels lost their glory if neglected,
So Princes their renownes, if not Respected
Tis now your honour (Daughter) to entertaine
The labour of each Knight in his deuice.

Thai. Which to preserue mine honour, Ile performe.

The first Knight passes by.

King. Who is the first, that doth preferre himselfe?

Thai. A Knight of Sparta (my renowned father)
And the deuice he beares vpon his shield,
Is a blacke Ethyope reaching at the Sunne;
The word; Lux tua vita mihi.

King. He loues you well, that holds his life of you.

Who is the second, that presents himselfe?

Thai. A prince of Macedon (my royall Father)
And the deuice he beares vpon his Shield,
Is an armed Knight, that's conquered by a Lady.
The Motto thus in Spanish. Pue Per dolcera kee per forsa

The third Knight.

King. And what's the third?

Thai. The third of Antioch: and his deuice,
A wreathe of Chiualry: the word, Me Pompey prouexit apex.

The fourth Knight.

King. What is the fourth?

Thai. A burning Torch that's turned vpside downe;
The word; Qui me alit me extinguit.

King. Which shewes that beauty hath his power and will,
Which can as well enflame, as it can kill.

The fift Knight.

Thal. The fift, an hand enuironed with clouds,
Holding out gold, that's by the touch-stone tride:

The

The Motto thus: Sic ſpectanda fides.

The ſixt Knight.

King. And what's the ſixt and laſt, the which the Knight himſelfe with ſuch a graceſull courteſie deliuered?

Thai. He ſeemes to bee a ſtranger: but his Preſent is
A withered Branch, that's only greene at top;
The Motto, In hac ſpe viuo.

King. A pretty morrall; from the deiected ſtate wherein he is he hopes by you his fortunes yet may flouriſh.

1. Lord. He had need meane better then his outward ſhew can any way ſpeake in his iuſt commend: For by his ruſtie out-ſide, hee appeares to haue practiſed more the Whipſtocke, then the Lance.

2. Lord He well may be a ſtranger, for he comes to an honord triumph ſtrangely furnidit.

3. Lord. And on ſet purpoſe let his armour ruſt
Vntill this day, to ſcowre it in the duſt.

King. Opinion's but a foole, that makes vs ſcan
The out ward habite, by the inward man.
But ſtay, the Knights are comming,
We will with-draw into the Gallery.

Great ſhoutes, and all cry. The meane Knight.

Enter the King and Knights from tilting.

King. Knights, to ſay you'r welcome were ſuperfluous.
I place vpon the volume of your deedes.
As in a Title page, your worth in armes;
Were more then you expect, or more then's fit,
Since euery worth in ſhew commends it ſelfe:
Prepare for mirth, for mirth comes at a feaſt.
You are princes and my gueſts,

Thai. But you my Knight and gueſt,
To whom this wreathe of victory I giue,
And Crowne you King of this dayes happineſſe.

Per: Tis more by fortune (Lady) then by merit.

King. Call it by what you will, the day is yours,
And heere, I hope, is none that enuies it:

In framing an Artiſt, Art hath thus decreed,
To make ſome good, but others to exceed,
And you her laboured ſcholler: come Queene of th' feaſt,
For (daughter ſo you are, here take your place:
Martiall the reſt, as they deſerue his grace.

Knights. Wee are honoured much by good Simonides.

King. Your preſent glads our dayes, honour we loue,
For who hates honour hates the God aboue.

Marſh. Sir yonder is your place.

Per. Some other is more fit.

1. Knight. Contend not ſir for we are gentlemen,
That neither in our hearts nor outward eyes
Enuy the great, or doe the low deſpiſe.
You are right curteous Knights.

King. Sit, ſit, ſit,
By Ioue (I wonder) that is King of thoughts,
Theſe Cates reſiſt me, he not thought vpon.

Thai. By Iuno (that is Queene of Mariage)
All Viands that I eate do ſeeme vnſauory,
Wiſhing him my meat: ſure hee's a gallant gentleman.

King. Hee's but a country gentleman, has done no more
Then other Knights haue done, has broke a ſtaffe,
Or ſo; let it paſſe.

Thai. To me he ſeemed a Diomond to glaſſe.

Per. You King's to me, like to my fathers picture,
Which tels me in that glory once he was,
And Princes ſat like ſtars about his Throne,
And he the Sun, for them to reuerence;
None that beheld him but like leſſer lights,
Did vaile their Crownes to his ſupremacy;
Where now his ſonne like a Glo-worme in the night,
The which hath fire in darkneſſe none in light:
Whereby I ſee that time's the King of men,
For hee's their parents and he is their graue,
And giues them what he will not what they craue.

King. what are you merry, Knights?

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

King. Heere with a cup that's sturd vnto the brim,
As you do loue, fill to your Mistris lips,
We drinke his health to you.
Knight. We thanke your grace.
King. Yet pause awhile; yon Knight sits too melancholy,
As if the entertainment in our Court,
Had not a shew might counteruaile his worth:
Note it not you Thaisa?
Thai. What is't to me my father?
King. O, attend my daughter,
Princes in this should liue like Gods aboue,
Who freely giues to euery one that come to honour them:
And Princes not doing so, are like to Gnats,
Which make a sound, but kild, are wondred at:
Therefore to make his enterance more sweet,
Heere, say we drinke this standing boule of wine to him.
Thai. Alasse my father, it befits not me,
Vnto a stranger Knight to bee so bold,
He may my proffer take for an offence,
Since men take womens gifts for impudence.
King. How? do as I bid you or you'l moue me else.
Thai. Now by the Gods, he could not please me better.
King. And futhermore tell him, we desire to know of him.
Of whence he is, his name and parentage She carries him
Thai. The King my father (sir) hath drunke to you. the cup.
Per. I thanke him.
Thai. Wishing it so much blood vnto your life.
Per. I thanke both him and you, and plege him freely. Hee
Thai. And further he desires to know of you, drinkes
Of whence you are your name and Parentage.
Per. A gentleman of Tyre, my name Pericles,
My education being in Artes and armes:
Who looking for aduentures in the world,
Was by the rough seas reft of ships and men,
And after shipwracke, driuen vpon this shore,
Thai. He thankes your Grace; names himselfe Pericles,
A gentleman of Tyre, who onely by misfortune of the seas,

Bereft

Bereft of ships and men, cast on the shore.
King. Now by the Gods, I pitty his misfortune
And will awake him from his melancholy.
Come gentlemen, we sit to long on trifles,
And waste the time, which lookes for other reuels.
Euen in your armours as you are addrest,
Will well become a Souldiers dance:
I will not haue excuse with saying that
Lowd musicke is too harsh for Ladies heads,
Since they loue men in Armes, as well as beds.
They dance.
So, this was well asked, t'was so well performde,
Come sir heere's a Lady that wants breathing too:
And I haue heard, you Knights of Tyre,
Are excellent in making Ladies trip,
And that their measures are excellent.
Per. In those that practise them, they are (my Lord.)
King. Oh thats as much as you would be denyed
Of your faire courtesie: vnclaspe, vnclaspe.
They dance.
Thankes gentlemen to all; all haue done well,
But you the best: Pages and Lights, to conduct
These Knights vnto their seuerall Lodgings:
Yours sir, we haue giuen order be next our owne.
Per. I am at your Graces pleasure.
King. Princes, it is too late to talke of loue,
And thats the marke I know you leuell at:
Therefore each one betake him to his rest,
To morrow, all for speeding do their best.

Enter Helicanus and Escanes.

Hell. No Escanes, know this of me,
Antiochus from incest liued not free:
For which, the most high Gods not minding Longer to with-hold the vengeance that
They had in store, due to his haynous
Capitall offence; euen in the height and pride

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Of all his glory, when he was seated in
A Chariot of an inestimable value, and his daughter
With him; a fire from heauen came and shriueld
Vp those bodies euen to loathing, for they so stunke,
That all those eyes adorn'd them, ere their fall,
Scorne now their hand should giue them buriall.
Escanes. It was very strange.
Hell. And yet by iustice; for though this King were great,
His greatnesse was so guard to barre heauens shaft.
By sinne had his reward.
Escan. Tis very true.

Enter two or three Lords.

1. Lord. See, not a man in priuate conference,
Or counsell, hath respect with him but he.
2. Lord. It shall no longer greeue without reproofe.
3. Lord And curst be he that will not second it.
1. Lord. Follow me then: Lord Hellicane, a word.
Hell. With me? and welcome, happy day my Lords.
1. Lord. Know that our griefes are risen to the top,
And now at length they ouer-flow their bankes.
Hell. Your griefes, for what?
Wrong not your Prince your loue.
1. Lord Wrong not your selfe then noble Helliean,
But if the Prince do liue, let vs salute him,
Or know what ground's made happy by his breath:
If in the world he liues wee'l seeke him out:
If in his graue he rest, wee'l find him there,
And be resolu'd he liues to gouerne vs:
Or dead, giues cause to mourne his funerall,
And leaue vs to our free Election.
2. Lord, Whose death indeed, the strongest in our censure,
And knowing this Kingdome is without a head,
Like goodly buildings left without a Roofe,
Soone fall to ruine: your noble selfe,
That best knowes how to rule and how to raigne,
We thus submit vnto our Soueraigne.

Omnes.

Omnes. Liue noble Hellican.
Hell. Try honours cause; forbeare your suffrages:
If that you loue Prince Pericles, forbeare,
(Take I your wish, I leape into the seas
Wher's howrely trouble for a minutes ease)
A twelue month longer, let me intreate you
To forbeare the absence of your King;
If in which time expired, he not returne,
I shall with aged patience beare your yoke.
But if I cannot win you to this loue,
Goe search like Nobles, like noble Subiects,
And in such search, spend your aduenturous worth,
Whom if you find, and win vnto returne
You shall like Diamonds sit about his Crowne.
1. Lord. To wisedome, hee's a foole that will not yeeld,
And since Lord Helliean enioyneth vs,
We with our trauels will endeauor.
Hell. Then you loue vs, we you, and wee'l claspe hands,
When Peeres thus knit a Kingdome euer stands. Exit.

Enter the King reading of a letter, at one doore, and the Knights meete him.

1. Knight, Good morrow to the good Simonides.
King. Knights, from my daughter this I let you know,
That for this twelue month, shee'l not vndertake
A married life: her reason to herselfe is onely knowne,
Which from her by no meanes can I get.
2. Knight. May we not get accesse to her (my Lord)
King. Fayth by no meanes, she hath so strictly Tyed her to her chamber, that tis impossible:
One twelue Moones more shee'l weare Dianas liuery:
This by the eye of Cinthia hath she vowed,
And on her Virgin honour will not breake.
3. Knight. Loth to bid farewell, we take our leaues.
King. So, they are well dispatcht,
Now to my daughters Letter; she tels me heere,
Shee'l wed the stranger Knight.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Or neuer more to view nor day nor light,
Tis well Mistris, your choice agrees with mine,
I like that well: nay how absolute shee's in it,
Not minding whether I dislike or no.
Well, I do commend her choyce, and will no longer
Haue it be delayed: soft, heere he comes,
I must dissemble it.

Enter Pericles.

Per. All fortune to the good Simonides.

King. To you as much: Sir, I am beholding to you,
For your sweet musicke this last night:
I do protest my eares were neuer better fed
With such delightfull pleasing harmony.

Per. It is your graces pleasure to commend,
Not my desert.

King. Sir, You are Musicks master.

Per. The worst of all her schollers (my good Lord)

King. Let me aske you one thing.
What do you thinke of my daughter, sir?

Per. A most vertuous Princesse,

King. And shee's faire too, is she not?

Per. As a faire day in Summer: wondrous faire.

King. Sir my daughter thinkes very well of you,
I so well that you must be her master,
And she will be your Scholler; therefore looke to it.

Per. I am vnworthy to be her schoolemaster.

King. She thinkes not so; peruse this writing else.

Per. What's heere, a letter, that she loues the Knight of Tyre.
Tis the Kings subtilty to haue my life:
Oh seeke not to intrap me gracious Lord,
A stranger and distressed gentleman,
That neuer aimde so high to loue your daughter,
But bent all office to honour her.

King. Thou hast bewitcht my daughter,
And thou art a villaine.

Per. By the Gods I haue not; neuer did thought

Of mine leuy offence; nor neuer did my actions
Yet commence, a deed might gaine her loue,
Or your displeasure.

King. Traitor, thou lyest.

Per. Traytor?

King. I traytor.

Per. Euen in his throate, vnlesse he be a King,
That cals me traitor I returne the lye.

King. Now by the Gods I do applaud his courage.

Per. My actions are as noble as my thoughts,
That neuer relisht of a base discent:
I came vnto your Court for honours cause,
And not to be a rebell to our state:
And he that otherwise accounts of me,
This sword shall prooue hee's honours enemy.

King. No? here comes my daughter, she can witnesse it.

Enter Thaisa.

Per. Then as you are as vertuous, as faire,
Resolue your angry father, if my tongue
Did ere solicite, or my hand subscribe
To any syllable that made loue to you?

Thai. Why sir if you had who takes offence,
At that would make me glad?

King. Yea mistris, are you so peremptory?
I am glad of it with all my heart,
Ile tame you ile bring you in subiection. Aside.
Will you not hauing my consent,
Bestow your loue and your affections,
Vpon a stranger? who for ought I know, Aside.
May be (nor can I thinke the contrary)
As great in blood as I my selfe.
Therefore heare you mistris, eyther frame
Your will to mine; and you sir heare you,
Eyther be rul'd by me, or Ile make you——
Man and wife; nay, come your hands
And lips must seale it too: being ioynd,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Ile thus your hopes deſtroy, and for further griefe,
God giue you ioy; what, are you both pleaſed?
Thai. Yes, if you loue me ſir.
Per. Euen as my life or blood that foſters it.
King. What are you both agreed?
Amb. Yes if it pleaſe your maieſty.
King It pleaſeth me ſo well, that I will ſee you wed,
And then with what haſt you can, get you to bed.
Enter Gower, Exeunt.
Now ysleepe ſlaked hath the rout,
No din but ſnores about the houſe.
Made lowder by the o're-fe beaſt,
Of his moſt pompous marriage feaſt:
The Cat with eyne of Burning coale,
Now coutches from the Mouſes hole;
And Cricket ſing at the ouens mouth,
Are the blither for their drouth:
Hymen hath brought the Bride to bed,
Whereby the loſſe of mayden-head,
A babe is moulded, by attent,
And time that is ſo briefly ſpent,
With your fine fancies quaintly each,
What's dumbe in ſhew, Ile plaine with ſpeech.

Dumbe Shew.

Enter Pericles & Simonides at on doore with attendants, a Meſſenger meetes them, knerles, & giues Pericles a letter, Pericles ſhewes it Simonides, the Lords kneele to him; then enter Thayſa with child, with Lychorida a Nurſe, the King ſhewes her the letter, ſhe reioyces: ſhe and Pericles take leaue of her father, and depart.

By many a dearne and painefull pearch
Of Pericles, the carefull ſearch,
By the foure oppoſing Crignes,
Which the World together ioynes,
Is made with all due diligence,
That horſe and ſaile, and high expence,
Can ſteed the queſt at laſt from Tyre,

Fame anſwering the moſt ſtrange enquire,
To'th Court of King Symonides,
Are letters brought, the tenour theſe:
Antiochus and his daughter's dead,
The men of Tyrus, on the head
Of Helicanus would ſet on
The crowne of Tyre, but he will none:
The mutany, he there haſtes t'oppreſſe,
Sayes to them, if King Pericles
Come not home in twice ſixe Moones,
He obedient to their doomes,
Will take the Crowne: the ſum of this Brought hither to Penlapolis,
Ironly ſhed the Regions round,
And euery one with claps can ſound,
Our heyre apparant is a King:
Who dreampt? who thought of ſuch a thing?
Briefe, he muſt hence depart to Tyre,
His Queene with childe, makes her deſire,
Which who ſhall croſſe along to goe,
Omit we all their dole and woe:
Lychorida her Nurſe ſhee takes,
And ſo to ſea, their veſſell ſhakes,
On Neptunes billow, halfe the flood,
Hath their Keele cut: but fortune moou'd
Varies againe: the grieſlee North
Diſgorges ſuch a tempeſt forth,
That as a Ducke for life that driues,
So vp and downe the poore ſhip diues:
The lady ſhreekes, and well-a-neere,
Doth fall in trauile with her feare:
And what enſues in this ſelfe ſtorme,
Shall for it ſelfe, it ſelfe performe.
I nill relate, action may Conueniently the reſt conuay
Which might not? what by me is told;

Enter Pericles on Shipboord.

Per. The God of this great vaſt, rebuke theſe ſurges
Which waſh both heauen and hell, and thou haſt
Vpon the Windes command, binde them in Braſſe
Hauing cald them from the deepe, O ſtill
Thy dearning dreadfull thunders, daily quench
Thy nimble ſulpherous flaſhes: O how Lichorida?
How does my Queene? then ſtorme venomouſly,
Wilt thou ſpeat all thy ſelfe? the Sea mans whiſtle
Is a whiſper in the eares of death,
Vnheard Lichorida? Lucina, oh!
Diuineſt patroneſſe, and my wife, gentle
To thoſe that cry by night, conuey thy Deity
Aboard our dauncing Boat, may ſwift the pangs
Of my Queenes trauailes. Now Lichorida.

Enter Lycherida.

Lych. Heere is nothing too young for ſuch a place,
Who if it had conceit, would die, as I am like to do:
Take in your armes this peece of your dead Queene.
Per. How now Lycherida?
Lych. Patience good ſir do not aſſiſt the ſtorme, Heere's all that is left liuing of your Queene;
A little Daughter, for the ſake of it
Be manly, and take comfort.
Per. O you Gods!
Why do you make vs loue your goodly gifts,
And ſnatch them ſtraight away?
We heere below, recall not what we giue,
And therein may vſe honour with you.
Lych. Patience good ſir, euen for this charge.
Per. Now milde may be thy life,
For a more bluſterous birth had neuer Babe:
Quiet and gentle thy condition;
For thou art the rudeſt welcome to this world,

That

That euer was Princes childe: happy what follows,
Thou haſt as chiding a Natiuity,
As Fire, Ayre, Water, Earth, and Heauen can make,
To harold thee from the wombe:
Euen at the firſt, thy loſſe is more then can
Thy portage quite, with all thou canſt finde heere:
Now the good Gods throw their beſt eyes vpon it.

Enter two Saylers.

1. Sayl. what courage ſir? God ſaue you.
Per. Courage enough, I do not feare the flaw,
It hath done to me the worſt: yet for the loue
Of this poore infant, this freſh new ſea-farer,
I would it would be quiet.
1. Sayl. Slack the bolins there; thou wilt not, wilt thou?
Blow and ſplit thy ſelfe.
2 Sayl. But ſea-roome, and the brine and clowdy billow kiſſe the Moone: I care not.
1 Sayl. Sir, your Queene muſt ouer board,
The ſea workes hie, the winde is lowd,
And will not lye till the ſhip be cleared of the dead.
Per. That's your ſuperſtition.
1. Pardon vs ſir; this is a lye with vs at Sea it hath bin ſtill obſerued And we are ſtrong in eaſterne, therefore briefly yeeld her.
Per. As you thinke meete, for ſhe muſt ore board ſtraight, Moſt wretched Queene.
Lychor. Heere ſhe lies ſir.
Per. A tirrible child-bed haſt thou had (my deare)
No light, to fire, the vnfriendly Elements
Forgot thee vtterly nor haue I time
To bring thee hallowd to thy graue, but ſtraight
Muſt caſt thee ſcarſely coffind in oare,
Where for a Monument vpon thy bones,
The ayre remaining lampes, the belching Whale,
And humming water moſt ore-whelme thy corps
Lying with ſimple ſhels: O Lychorida,
Bid Neſter bring me Spices, Incke and Paper,
My Casket and my Iewels, and bin Nicander

Bring

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Bring me the Satin Coffin ; lay the Babe
Vpon the Pillow ; hie thee, whiles I say
A priestly farewell to her : sodainely, woman.
2. Sir, we haue a Chest beneath the hatches,
Caulkt and bittumed ready.
Per. I thanke thee : Meriner say what coast is this ?
2. We are neere Tharsus.
Per. Thithar gentle Mariner,
Alter thy course for Tyre, when canst thou reach it ?
2. By breake of day, if the winde cease.
Per. O make for Tharsus,
There will I visite Cleon, for the Babe
Cannot hold out to Tyrus ; there Ile leaue it
At carefull nursing : goe the wayes good Mariner,
He bring the body presently.

Exit.

Enter Lord Cerymon with a seruant,

Cer. Philemon, hoe.

Enter Philemon.

Phyl. Doth my Lord call ?
Cer. Get fire and meate for these poore men,
It hath beene a turbulet and stormy night,
Ser. I haue beene in many ; but such a night as this,
Till now I neare indured.
Cer, Your Master will be dead ere you returne,
Ther's nothing can be ministred to nature,
That can recouer him : giue this to the Pothecary,
And tell me how it workes.

Enter two Gentlemen.

1. Gent. Good morrow.
2. Gent. Good morrow to your Lordship,
Cer. Gentlemen, why do you stirre so early ?
1. Gent. Sir, our lodgings standing bleake vpon the sea
Shooke as if the earth did quake :
The very principles did seeme to rend and all to topple,
Peur surprize and feare, made me to leaue the house,

2. Gent. That is the cause wee trouble you so early.
Tis not our husbandry.
Cer. O you say well.
1. Gent. But I much maruaile that your Lordship
Hauing rich attire about you, should at these early houres
Shake off the golden slumber of repose : tis most strange
Nature should be so conuersant with paine,
Being thereto not compelled.
Cer. I hold it euer Vertue and Cunning.
Were endwomens greater, then Nobleness and Riches,
Careless heyres may the two latter darken and expend ;
But immortality attends the former,
Making a man a God :
Tis knowne, I euer studied Physicke,
Through which secret Art, by turning ore Authority,
I haue together with my practise made familiar
To me and to my aide, the best infusions that dwels
In Vegitiues, in Mettals, Stones : and can speake of the Disturbances that Nature works, and of her eures ;
Which doth diue me a more content in course of true delight
Then to be thirsty after tottering Honour,
Or tye my pleasure vp in silken Bags,
To please the Foole and Death.
2. Gent, Your honour hath through Ephesus, poured foorth your charity, and hudereds call themselues
Your Creatures ; who by you haue beene restored,
And not your knowledge, your personall paine,
But euen your purse still open, hath built Lord Cerimon
Such strong renowne, as neuer shall decay.

Enter two or three with a Chest.

Ser. So, lift there.
Cer. What's that ?
Ser. Sir, euen now did the sea tosse vP vpon or shoure
This Chest ; tis of some wracke.
Cer. Set it downe, let vs looke vpon it.
Gent. Tis like a Coffin, sir.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Cer. What ere it be, tis wondrous heauy;
Wrench it open straight:
If the seas stomacke be ore-charg'd with gold,
Tis a good constraint of Fortune it belches vpon vs.

2. Gent. Tis so, my Lord.

Cer. How close tis caulkt and bottomd, did the sea cast it vp?

Ser. I neuer saw so huge a billow sir, as tost it vpon shore.

Cer. Wrench it open; it smels most sweetely in my sence.

2. Gent. A delicate Odour.

Cer. As euer hit my nostrill: so, vp with it.
Oh you most potent Gods! whats heere, a Coarse?

2. Gen. Most strange.

Cer. Shrowded in cloth of state, balmd and entreasured
With full bags of spices, a Pasport to Apollo, Perfect me in the Characters.

Heere I giue to vnderstand,
If ere this Coffin driue a land,
I King Pericles hath lost
This Queene, worth all our mundaine cost:
Who findes her, giue her burying,
She was the daughter of a King,
Besides this treasure for a fee,
The Gods requite his charity.

If thou liuest Pericles, thou hast a heart
That euen crackes for woe this chanc'd to night.

2. Gent, Most likely sir.

Cer. Nay certainely to night, for looke how fresh she lookes.
They were too rough, that, threw her in the sea.
Make a fire within, fetch hither all my boxes in my Closet,
Death may vsurpe on nature many howres.
And yet the fire of life kindle againe the ore-prest spirits,
I heard of an Egyptian that had nine houres bene dead,
Who was by good appliance recouered,

Enter one with Napkins and Fire.

Well said, well said, the fire and cloathes,

The

The rough and wofull musicke that we haue,
Cause it to sound I beseech you:
The Viall once more; how thou stirrest thou blocke?
The musicke there: I pray you giue her ayre;
Gentlemen, this Queene will liue,
Nature awakes a warme breath out of her;
She hath not bene entranc'st aboue fiue houres,
See how she gins to blow into lifes flower againe.

1. Gen. The heauens through you, encrese our wonder,
And sets vp your fame for euer.

Cer. She is aliue, behold her eye lids,
Cases to those heauenly iewels which Pericles hath lost,
Begin to part their fringes of bright gold,
The Diamonds of a most praised water doth appeare,
To make the world twice rich, liue, and make vs weepe,
To heare your fate, faire creature, rare as you seeme to be.

She moues.

Thai, O deare Diana, where am I? where's my Lord?
What world is this?

2. Gent. Is not this strange?

1. Gent. Most rare.

Cer. Hush (my gentle neighbour) lend me your hands,
To the next chamber beare her, get linnen;
Now this matter must be lookt too, for the relapse
Is mortall: come, come, and Esculapius guide vs.

They carrie her away Exeunt omnes.

Enter Pericles at Tharsus, with Cleon Dionizia.

Per. Most honoud Cleon, I must needs be gone,
My twelue months are expirde, and Tyre stands.
In a peace: you and your Lady take from my heart
All thankfulnesse, The Gods make vp the rest vpon you

Cleon. Your shakes of fortune, though they haunt you.
Mortally, yet glance full wondringly on vs.

Dion. O your sweete Queene! that the strict fates had pleased
You had brought her hither to haue blest mine eies with her.

Per. We cannot but obey the powers aboue vs?

Could

Could I rage and rore as doth the ſea ſhe lies in,
Yet the end muſt be as tis: my gentle babe Marina,
Whom (for ſhe was borne at ſea) I haue named ſo,
Heere I change your charity withall; leauing her
The infant of your care, beſeeching you to giue her
Princely training, that ſhe may be mannerd as ſhe is borne.
Cleon, Feare not (my Lord) but thinke your Grace,
That fed my Country with your Corne, for which,
The peoples prayers daily fall vpon you muſt in your childe
Be thought on, if neglect ſhould therein make me vile,
The common body by you relieu'd,
Would force me to my duty, but if to that,
My nature need a ſpurre, the Gods reuenge it
Vpon me and mine, to the end of generation,
Per. I beleeue you, your honour and your goodneſſe,
Teach mee toot without your vowes till ſhe be married,
Maddam, by bright Diana, whom we honour,
All vnſiſterd ſhall his heyres of mine remaine,
Though I ſhew will in't; ſo I take my leaue:
Good Maddam, make me bleſſed, in your care
In bringing vp my childe.
Dion. I haue one my ſelfe, who ſhall not be more deere to my reſpect then yours my Lord.
Per. My thanks and prayers.
Cleon. Wee'l bring your graces to the edge of the ſhore, then giue you vp to the maſked Neptune, and the gentleſt windes of heauen.
Per. I will embrace your offer come deereſt Madame.
O no teares Lychorida, no teares looke to your little Miſtris, on whoſe grace you may depend heereafter: come my Lord.

Enter Cerymon and Thaiſa.

Cer. Maddam, this Letter, and ſome certaine Iewels,
Lay with you in your Coffer, which are at your command:
Know you the Character?
Thai. It is my Lords, that I was ſhipt at ſea, I well remember, euen on my learning time: but whether there deliuered, by the holy holy Gods, I cannot rightly ſay: but ſince King Pericles my wedded Lord, I neere ſhall ſee againe, a vaſtall liuery will I take me to,

and neuer more haue ioy.
Cler. Maddam, if this you purpoſe as ye ſpeake,
Dianaes Temple is not diſtant farre,
Where you may abide till your date expire,
Moreouer if you pleaſe a Neece of mine,
Shall their attend you,
Thai. My recompence is thanks, thats all,
Yet my good will is great, the gift ſmall. Exit.

Enter Gower.

Gower. Imagine Pericles arriude at Tyre,
Welcomd and ſetled to his owne deſire?
His wofull Queene we leaue at Epheſus, vnto Diana ther's a votariſſe.
Now to Marina bend your minde,
Whom our faſt growing ſcene muſt find
At Tharſus, and by Cleon traind
In Muſickes letters, who hath gaind
Of education all the grace
Which makes high both the art and place
Of generall wonder but alacke
That monſter Enuy oft the wracke
Of earned praiſe, Marinas life
Seeke to take off by treaſons knife,
And in this kinde, our Cleon hath
One daughter and a full growne wench,
Euen ripe for marriage fight: this Maid
Hight Philoten: and it is ſaid
For certaine in our ſtory, ſhe
Would euer with Marinar be,
Beet when they weaude the ſleded ſilke,
With fingers long, ſmall, white as milke,
Or when ſhe would with ſharpe needle wound,
The Cambricke which ſhe made more ſound
By hurting it, or when too'th Lute
She ſung, and made the night bed mute,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

That ſtill records within one, or when
She would with rich and conſtant pen,
Vaile to her Miſtreſſe Dian ſtill,
This Philoten contents in ſkill
With abſolute Marina: ſo
The Doue of Paphos might with the crow
Vie feathers white, Marina gets
All praiſes which are paide by debts,
And not as giuen, this ſo darkes
In Philoten all graceſull markes,
That Cleons wife with enuy rare,
A preſent murderer does prepare
For good Marina, that her daughter
Might ſtand peereleſſe by this ſlaughter
The ſooner her vile thoughts to ſtead,
Lychorida our Nurſe is dead,
And curſed Dioniza hath
The pregnant inſtrument of wrath.
Preſt for this blow, the vnbotne euent,
I do commend to your content,
Only I carried winged Time,
Poſte on the lame feete of my rime
Which neuer could I ſo conuay,
Vnleſſe your thoughts went on my way.
Dioniza doth appeare,
With Leonine a murderer. Exit.

Enter Dioniza and Leonine.

Dion. Thy oath remember, thou haſt ſworne to do it, tis but a blow, which neuer ſhall be knowne, thou canſt not do a thing in the world ſo ſoone, to yeeld thee ſo much profit, let not conſcience which is but cold, inflaming thy loue boſome, enflame too nicely; nor let pitty, which euen women haue caſt off, melt thee but be a ſoldiour to thy purpoſe.

Leon. I will doo't, but yet ſhe is a goodly creature.

Dion. The fitter then the Gods ſhould haue her,
Heere ſhe comes weeping for her onely Miſtreſſe death,

Thou

Thou art reſolu'd?

Leon. I am reſolu'd.

Enter Marina with a baſket, of flowers.

Mar. No: I will robbe Tellus of her weede, to ſtrew thy greene with Flowers: the yellowes, blewes, the purple Violets, and Marigolds, ſhall as a Carpet hang vpon thy graue, while Summer dayes do laſt, Aye me poore maide, borne in a tempeſt, when my mother dide: this world to me is like a laſting ſtorme, me hurrying from my friends.

Dion. How now Marina? why de'ye weepe alone?
How chauce my daughter is not with you?
Doe not conſume my blood with ſorrowing,
Yo haue a nurſe of me. Lord how your fauour's
Chang'd with this vnprofitable woe:
Come giue me your flowers, ere the ſea marre it,
Walke with Leonine, the ayre is quicke there,
And it pierces and ſharpens the ſtomacke;
Come Leonine take her by the arme, walke with her.

Mar. No I pray you, Ile not bereaue you of your ſeruant.

Dion. Come, come, Ile loue the King your father, and your ſelfe, with more then forraine heart: wee euery day expect him heere, when hee ſhall come and finde our Paragon, to all reports thus blaſted. Hee will repent the breadth of his great voyage blame both my Lord and mee, that wee haue taken no care to your beſt courſe. Go I pray you, walke and be chierfull once againe; reſerue that excellent complection, which did ſteale the eyes of yong and old,
Care not for me, I can goe home alone.

Mar. Well, I will go, but yet I haue no deſire to it.

Dion. Come come, I know 'tis good for you:
Walke halfe an howre Leonine, at the leaſt,
Remember what I haue ſaid.

Leon. I warrant you Madam.

Dion. Ile leaue you my ſweet Lady, for a while: pray walke ſoftly, doe not heate your blood; what, I muſt haue a care of you.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Mar. My thinks ſweet Madame-Is the winde W eſterly that blowes?

Leon. South. weſt.

Mar. When I was borne, the winde was North.

Leon. Waſt ſo?

Mer. My father, as Nurſe ſaith, did neuer feare, but eryed good ſea-men to the ſaylers, galling his Kingly hands hailing ropes, and claſping to the Maſt. endured a ſea that almoſt burſt the decke.

Leon. When was this?

Mar. When I was borne, neu er was waues nor winde more violent, and from the ladder tackle, waſhes off a canuas clymer, ha, ſaith one, wilt out? and with a dropping induſtry they skipe from ſterne to ſterne: the Boat-ſwaine whiſtles, and the Maſter calles and trebles their confuſion.

Leon. Come, ſay your prayers.

Mar. What meane you?

Leon. If you require a little ſpace for prayer, I grant it pray, but be not tedious, for the Gods are quicke of eare, and I am ſworne to do my worke with haſte.

Mar Why, will you kill me?

Leon. To ſatisfie my Lady.

Mar. Why would ſhe haue me kild now? as I can remember by my troth, I neuer did her hurt in all my life, I neuer ſpake bad word, nor did ill turne to any liuing creature beleeue mee now, I neuer kild a Mouſe, nor hurt a Flie: I trod vpon a worme once againſt my will, but I wept for it. How haue I offended wherein my death might yeeld her any profite, or my life imply her any danger?

Leon. My Commiſſion is not to reaſon of the deed, but doo't.

Mar. You will not doo't for all the world, I hope: you are well fauoured, and your lookes fore-ſhew you haue a very gentle heart, I ſaw you lately when you caught hurt in parting two that fought: good-ſooth it ſhewd well in you, do ſo now, your Lady ſeekes my life, come you betweene, and ſaue poore me the weaker.

Leon. I am ſworne, and will diſpatch.

Enter

Enter Pirates,

Pirat 1. Hold vilaine.

Pirat 2. A prize, a prize.

Pirat 3. Halfe part mates, halfe part. Come lets haue her aboard ſodainely.

Enter Leonine.

Leon. Theſe roguing theeues ſerue the great Pyrate valdes and they haue ſeiſed Marina, let her goe, ther's no hope ſhee will returne: Ile ſweare ſhee's dead and throwne into the ſea but Ile ſee further, perhaps they will not pleaſe themſelues vppon her, not carry her aboard, if ſhee remaine, Whom they haue rauiſht, muſt be ſlaine. Exit.

Enter the three Bands.

Pander. Boult.

Boult. Sir.

Pander. Search the market narrowly, Metaline is full of gallants, wee loſt too much money this mart, by being too wenchleſſe.

Band. We were neuer ſo much out of creatures, wee haue but poore three, and they can doe no more then they can do, and they with continuall action are as good as rotten,

Pander. Therefore lets haue freſh ones what ere wee pay for them, if there be not a conſcience to be uſde in euery trade, wee ſhall neuer proſper.

Band. Thou ſaieſt true, tis not our bringing vp of poore baſtards, as I thinke I haue brought ſome eleuen.

Boult. I to eleuen and brought them downe againe,
But ſhall I ſearch the market?

Band. What elſe man? the ſtuffe wee haue a ſtrong winde will blow it to pieces, they are ſo pittifull ſodden.

Pander. Thou ſaiſt true, ther's two vnwholſome in conſcience, the poore Tranſiluanian is dead that lay with the little baggedge

Boult. I ſhee quickly poupt him, ſhee made him roaſt-meate

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

for wormes, but Ile go search the market

Pand. Three or foure thousand Chickeens were as prety a proportion to liue quietly, and so giue ouer.

Band. Why. to giue ouer I pray you? Is it a shame to get when we are old?

Pand. Oh our credit comes not in like the commoditie, nor the commodity wages not with the danger: therefore, if in our youths we could picke vp some pritty estate, t' where not amisse to keepe our doore hatch'd; besides, the sore termes wee stand vpon with the gods, will be strong with vs for giuing ore.

Band Come, other sorts offend as well as we.

Pand As well as we, I, and better too, we offend worse, neither is our profession any Trade, it's no calling: but here comes Boult.

Enter Boult with the Pirates, and Marina.

Boult. Come your wayes my masters, you say shee's a virgine?

Sayl. O sir. we doubt not.

Boult. Master, I haue gone through for this peece you see, If you like her, so; if; not, I haue lost my earnest.

Band. Boult, ha's she any qualities?

Boult. She has a good face, speakes well, and has excellent good clothes: thers no farther necessity of qualities can make her be refusd.

Band. What's her price, Boult.

Boult. I cannot be abated one doit of a thousand peeces.

Pand. Well, follow me my masters, you shall haue your money presently: wife, take her in, instruct her what shee has to do that she may not be raw in her entertainment,

Band. Boult, take you the markes of her, the colour of her haire, complexion, height, age, with warrant of her virginity, and cry; He that will giue most, shall haue her first. Such a maiden-head weare no cheap thing, if men were as they haue bene: get this done as I command you.

Boult. Performance shall follow.

Mar. Alacke that Leonine was so slacke, so slow: Exit.
He should haue strucke, not spoke;

Or

Or that these Pirates, not enough barbarous,
Had not ore-boord throwne me, for to seeke my mother.

Band. Why weepe you pretty one?

Mar. That I am pretty.

Band. Come, the gods haue done their parts in you.

Mar. I accuse them not.

Band. You are delight into my hands,
Where you are like to liue.

Mar. The more my fault, to scape his hands,
Where I was like to die.

Band. I. and you shall liue in pleasure.

Mar. No.

Band. Yes indeede shall you, and taste Gentlemen of all fashions. You shall farewell; you shall haue the difference of all complexions: what, de'ye stop your eares?

Mar. Are you a woman?

Band. What would you haue mee to bee, if I bee not a woman?

Mar. An honest woman, or not a woman,

Band. Marry whip thee Gosling: I thinke I shall haue something to doe with you. Come y'are a yong foolish sapling, and must be bowed as I would haue ye.

Mar. The Gods defend me.

Band. If it please the Gods to defend you by men, then men must comfort you, men must feede you men must stirre you vp: Boults return'd,

Enter Boult.

Now sir, hast thou cride her through the market?

Boult. I haue cried her almost to the number of her haires,
I haue drawne her picture with my voyce.

Band. I prethy tell mee how doest thou finde the inclination of the people, especially of the yonger sort?

Boult. Faith they listned to me, as they would haue hearkned to their fathers Testament. There was a Spaniardes mouth so watered, that he went to bed to her very description.

Band. We shall haue him heere to morrow with his best ruffe on.

Boult.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Boult. To night, to night, but Mistresse, doe you know the French Knight that cowtes i'th hams?

Band. Who, Mounsier Verollu?

Boult. I, he offered to cut a caper at the proclamation, but he made a grone at it, and swore he would see her to morrow.

Band. Well, well, as for him he brought his disease hither, here he doth but repaire it, I know he will come in our shadow, to scatter his crownes in the sunne.

Boult. Well, if we had of euery Nation a traueller, we should lodge them with this signe.

Band. Pray you come hither a while, you haue Fortunes coming vpon you, marke me, you must seeme to doe that fearefully, which you commit willinly, despise, profit where, you haue most gaine, to weepe that you liue as you do, make pitty in your louers sildome, but that pitty begets you a good opinion, and that opinon a meere profite.

Mar. I vnderstand you not.

Boult. O take her home mistresse, take her home, these blushes of hers must be quencht with some present practise.

Mari. Thou sayest true yfaith, so they must, for your Bride goes to that with shame, which is her way to goe with warrant

Boult. Faith some do, and some do not, but Mistresse, if I haue bargaind for the ioynt,

Band. Thou maist cut a morsell off the spit.

Boult. I may so.

Band. Who should deny it?
Come young one, I like the manner of your garments well.

Boult. I by my faith, they shall not be changed yet.

Band. Boult spend thou that in the Towne, report what a sojourner we haue, you'l lose nothing by custome. When Nature framed this peece, she ment thee a good turne, therefore say what a parragon she is, & thou hast thriue out of thine owne report.

Boult. I warrant you Mistresse, thunder shall not so awake the beds of Eeles, as my giuing out her beauty, stirs vp the lewdly enclined, Ile bring home some to night.

Band

Band. Come your waies, follow me.

Mari. If fiers be hot, knaues sharpe, or waters deepe,
Vntide I still my virgin knot will keepe.
Diana aide my purpose.

Band. What haue we to do with Diana? pray you goe with vs. Exit.

Enter Cleon and Dionizia.

Dion. Why are you foolish, can it be vndone?

Cleon. O Dionizia, such a peece of slaughter,
The sunne and Moone nere lookt vpon.

Dion. I thinke you'l turne a childe againe.

Cleon. Were I chiefe Lord of all this spacious world, Ile giue it to vndo the deed. O Lady, much lesse in blood then vertue, yet a Princesse to equall any single Crowne of the earth, in the iustice of compare, O villaine, Leonine whom thou hast poisoned too, if thou hadst drunke to him, it had beene a kindnesse becomming well thy face, what canst thou say, when Noble Pericles shall demand his childe?

Dion. That she is dead. Nurses are not the fates to foster it, nor euen to preserue, she dide at night Ile say so, who can crosse it, vnlesse you pray the Innocent, and for an honest attribute, cry out she dyde by foule play.

Cleon. O go too, well, well, of all the faults beneath heauens, the Gods do like this worst.

Dionzia. Be one of those that thinkes the pretty wrens of Tharsus will flie hence, and open this to Pericles, I do shame to thinke of what a Noble straine you are, and of how coward a spirit.

Cleon. To such proceeding, who euer, but his approbation added, though not his whole consent, he did not flow from honourable courses.

Dionzia. Be it so then, yet none doth know but you how she came dead, nor none can know Leonine being gone. Shee did disdaine my childe, and stoode betwnee her and her fortunes: none would looke on her, but cast their gazes on Marinas face, whilst ours was blorred at, and held a Mawkin, not worth the time of day. It pierc'd me thorow, and though you call my course vnnaturall, you not your childe well loving, yet I finde it greets me as an enterprize of kindnesse, perform'd to your sole daughter.

Cle. Heauens forgiue it.

Dion. And as for Pericles, what should he say? wee wept after her hearse, and yet we mourne: her monument is almost finished, and her Epitaph in glittering golden characters, expres a generall praise to her, and care in vs, at whose expence tis done.

Cle. Thou art like the Harpie,
Which to detray, dost with thy Angels face,
Ceaze with thine Eagles talents.

Dion. You are like one that superstitiously
Doth sweare to'th gods that Winter kils the flies,
But yet I know, you'do as I aduise. Exit.

Enter Gower

Thus time we waste, and longest leagues make short Saile seas in Cockels, haue and wish but for:
Making to take our imagination,
From bourne to bourne, Region to region.
By you being pard'ned, we commit no crime
To vse one Language, in each seuerall clime,
Where our scenes seeme to liue. I do beseech you
To learne of me, who stands in gaps to teach you.
The stages of our story Pericles,
Is now againe th'warting the wayward seas;
(Attended on by many a Lord and Knight)
To see his Daughter, all his liues dlight.
Old Hellicanus goes along behnide,
Is left to gouerne it: you beare in minde
Old Escenes whom Hellicanus late
Aduanc'd in time to great and high state.

Well

Well sayling ships, and bounteous, windes haue brought.
This King to Tharsus, thinke this Pilate thought
So with his sterage, shall your thoughts grone
To fetch his daughter home, who first is gone
Like moats and shadowes, see them moue a while.
Your eares vnto your eyes Ile reconcile,

Enter Pericles at one doore, with all his traine, Cleon and Dinozia at the other. Cleon shewes Pericles, the toombe, whereat Pericles make lvmention, puts on sack-cloth, and in a mightty passion departs.

Gower. See how beleefe may suffer by fowle showe,
This borrowed passion stands for true olde woe:
And Pericles in sorrow all deuour'd,
With sighes shot through, and biggest teares ore-showrd.
Leaues Tharsus, and againe imbarks, he sweares
Neuer to wash his face, nor cut his haires,
He put on sackcloth and to sea he beares,
A tempest which his mortall vessell teares:
And yet he rides it out, Now take we our way
To the Epitaph for Marina, writ by Dionizia.

The fairest, sweetest, and best lies heere.
Who withered in her spring of yeare:
She was of Tirus the Kings Daughter
On whom foule death hade made this slaughter:
Marina was she calld, and at her birth
That is being prond, swallowed some part of th'earth:
Therefore the earth fearing to be ore-flowed,
Hath Thetis birth-childe on the heauens bestowed.
Wherefore she does and sweares shee'l neuer stint,
Make raging Battrie vpon shores of flint.

No vizor does become blacke villany,
So well as soft and tender flattery:
let Pericles beleeue his daughter's dead.
And beare his courses to be ordered

By Lady Fortune, while our ſteare muſt play,
His daughter woe and heauy wel-aday.
In her vnholy ſeruice: Patience then,
And thinke yon now are all in Metaline.

Exit

Enter two Gentlemen

1. Cent. Did you euer heare the like?

2. Gent. No nor neuer ſhall do in ſuch a place as this, ſhe being once gone.

1. Gent. But to haue diuinity preacht there, did you euer dreame of ſuch a thing?

2. Gent. No no, come, I am for no more bawdy houſes, ſhall we go heare the Veſtals ſing?

1. Gent. Ile doe any thing now that is vertuous, but I am out of the road of rutting for euer.

Exit

Entr the three Bands

Pand. Well, I had rather then twice the worth of her, ſhe had neere came heere.

Baud. Fie, fie vpon her, ſhe is able to frieze the God Priapus, and vndoe a whole generation, we muſt eyther get her rauiſht, or be rid of her, when ſhe ſhould do for clyents her fitment, and do me the kindneſſe of our profeſſion, ſhe has me her quirks, her reaſons, her maſter-reaſons, her prayers, her knees, that ſhe would make a puritane of the diuell, if hee ſhould cheapen a kiſſe of her.

Boult. Faith I muſt rauiſh her, or ſhee'l diſfurniſh vs of all our Caualeers, and make our ſwearers Prieſts,

Pand. Now the poxe upon her greene ſickneſſe for me.

Bane. Faith ther's no way to be rid of it, but by the way to the poxe. Here comes the Lord Lyſimachus diſguiſed.

Boul. We ſhould haue both Lord and Lowne, if the peeuiſh daggedge would but giue ſtay to cuſtomers.

Entter Lyſimachus

Lyſ. How now, how a dozen of virginitiys?

Baud. Now the gods bleſſe your Houour.

Boult. I am glad to ſee your honour io good health.

Lyſ.

Lyſ. You may ſo, tis the better for you, that your reſorters ſtand vpon ſound legs, how now? wholeſome impunity haue you, that a man may deale withall, and defie the ſurgeon?

Baud. We haue one heere ſir if ſhe would —
But there neuer came her like in Metaline.

Lyſ. If ſhee'd do the deede of darknes, thou wouldſt ſay.

Baud. Your honour knowes what tis to ſay well enough.

Lyſ. Well, call forth, call forth.

Boult. For fleſh and blood ſir, white and red, yon ſhall ſee a Roſe, and ſhee were a Roſe indeede, if ſhe had but ——

Lyſ. What prethee?

Boult. O ſir, I can be modeſt.

Lyſ. That dignifies the renowne of a baud, no leſſe then it giues a good report to a number to be chaſt.

Enter Marina.

Baud. Heere comes that which growes to the ſtalke,
Neuer pluct yet I can aſſure you.
Is ſhe not a faire creature?

Lyſ. Faith ſhe would ſerue after a long voyage at ſea,
Well, ther's for you, leaue vs.

Baud. I beſeech your honour giue me leaue a word,
And Ile haue done preſently.

Lyſ. I beſeech you do.

Baud. Firſt, I would haue you note, this is an honorable man

Mar. I deſire to find him ſo, that I may worthily note him,

Baud. Next, ihee's the gouernor of this Country, and a man whom I am bound to.

Mar. If he gouerne the Country, you are bound to him indeede, but how honorable he is in that I know not.

Baud. Pray you without and more virginall fencing, will you vſe him kindly? he will line yonr Apron with gold.

Mar. What he will doe graciouſly I will thankefully receiue.

Lyſ. Haue you done?

Baud, My Lord, ſhee's not paſte yet, you muſt take ſome paines to worke her to your mannage, come, we will leaue his Honour and her together.

Exit Baud,

Lyſ.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Li. Now pritty one, how long haue you beene at this trade?

Mar. What trade Sir?

Li. why, I cannot name but I ſhall offend.

Mar. I cannot be offended with my trade, pleaſe you to name it.

Li. How long haue you bene of this profeſſion?

Mar. Ere ſince I can remember.

Li. Did you go too't ſo young, were you a gameſter at fiue or at ſeauen?

Mar. Earlier too ſir, if now I be one.

Li. Why the houſe you dwell in proclaims you to be a creature of ſale.

Mar. Doe you know this houſe to he a place of ſuch reſort, and will come into it? I heare ſay you are of honourable parts, and the Gouernor of this place.

Li. Why, hath your principall made knowne vnto you, who I am?

Mar. Who is my Principall?

Li. Why your bearbe woman, ſhe that ſets ſeeds and rootes of ſhame and iniquity. O you haue heard ſome-thing of my power, and ſo ſtand aloſt for more ſerious wooing, but I proteſt to thee, pretty one, my authority ſhall not ſee, thee, or elſe looke frindly vpon thee; come bring me to ſome prinate place, come, come.

Mar. If you were borne to honour, ſhew it now, if put vpon you, make the iugement good, that thonght you worthy of it

Li How's this? how's this? ſome more, be ſage.

Mar. For me that am a maide, though moſt vngentle Fortune haue plac'd mee in this Stie, where ſince I came, diſeaſes haue bene ſolde deerer then Phyſicke, O that the gods would ſet me free from this vnhallowd place, though they did change me to the meaneſt bird that flies i'th purer aire.

Li. I did not thinke thou couldſt haue ſpoke ſo well, I nere dreampt thou couldſt; had I brought hither a corrupted mind, thy ſpeech had altered it, hold, heere's gold for thee, perſeuer in that cleare way thon goeſt, and the gods ſtrengthen thee

Mar.

Mar. The good Gods perſerue you.

Li. For my part, I came with no ill intent, for to me the verie doores and windowes ſauour vilely, fare thee well, thou art a peece of vertue, and I doubt not but thy training hath bin Noble, hold, heere's more gold for thee, a curſe vpon him, dye hee like a theefe, that robs thee of thy goodneſſe, if thou doſt heare from me, it ſhall be for thy good.

Boult. I beſeech your honour, one peece for me.

Li. Auant thou damned dore-keeper, your houſe but for this virgin that doth prop it, would ſinke and ouer-whelme you. Away.

Boult. How's this? we muſt take another courſe with you? if your peeuiſh chaſtity, which is not worth a breake-faſt in the cheapeſt Country vnder the coape, ſhall vndoe a whole houſe hold, let me be geldeid leke a ſpaniell, come your waies

Mar. Whither would you haue me?

Boult. I muſt haue your mayden-head taken off, or the common hangman ſhall execute it, come your way, wee'l haue no more gentlemen driuen away, come your wayes I ſay.

Enter Bauds

Baud. How now, what's the matter?

Boult. Worſe and worſe Miſtris, ſhe hath heere ſpokn holy words to the Lord Lyſimachus.

Baud. O abhominable.

Boult. He makes our profeſſon as it were to ſtinke before the face of the Gods

Baud. Marry hang her vp for euer.

Boult. The Nobleman would haue dealt with her like a Nobleman, and ſhe ſent him away as colde as a Snow-ball, ſaying his prayers too.

Baud. Boult take her away vſe her at thy pleaſure, cracke the glaſſe of her virginity, & make the reſt male-able.

Boult. And if ſhe were a thornier peece of ground then ſhee is ſhe ſhall be ploughed.

Mar. Harke, harke, you Gods.

Baud. She coniures, away with her, would ſhe had neuer come within within my doores, Marry hang you, shee's borne to vndo vs, will you not go the way of women-kinde? Marry come vp my dish of chastity' with rosemary and bayse. Exit.

Boult. Come mistris, come your way with me.

Mar. Whither wilt thou haue me?

Boult. To take from you the iewell you hold so deere.

Mar Prithee tell me one thing first.

Boult. Come now, your one thing.

Mar. What canst thou wish thine enemy to be?

Boult. Why I could wish him to be my Master, or rather my Mistris.

Mar, Neither of these are so bad as thou art, since they do better thee in their command; thou holdst a place, for which the paine dst fiend in hell would not in reputation change: thou art the damned doore-keeper to euery cusherell that comes enquiring for his Tib; to the cholericke fisting of euery rogue, thy eare is liable, thy food is such as hath beene belcht on by infected lungs.

Bou. What would you haue me do? go to the wars wold you where a man may serue 7. yeares for the losse of a leg, and haue not mony enough in the end to buy him a wooden one?

Mar. Do any thing but this thou dost, empty olde receptacles, or common-shores of filth; serue by Indenture to the common hangman, any of these waies are yet better then this: for what thou professest, a Baboone could hee speake, would owne a name too deare: Oh, that the Gods would safely deliner me from this place: heere, heere's gold for thee, if that thy Master would gaine by me, proclaime that, I can sing, weane, sowe, and dance, with other vertues, which Ile keep from boast, and will vndertake all these to teach. I doubt not but this populous Cittie will yeeld many schollers,

Boult But can you teach all this you speake of?

Mar. Proue that I cannot, take me home againe, and prostitute me to the basest groome that doth frequent your house.

Boult. Well, I will see what I can do for thee: if I can place thee I will.

Mar. But amongst honest women.

Boult

Boult. Faith my acquaintance lyes little among them; but since my master and mistris hath bought you, ther's no going but by their consent: therefore I will make them acquainted with your purpose, and I doubt not but I shall find them tractable enough. Come, Ile do for thee what I can, come your waies. Exeunt.

Enter Gower.

Marina thus the Brothell scapes and chances
Into an honest house, our story saies;
She sings like one immortall, and she dances
As Goddesse-like to her admired laies;
Deepe Clearks she dumbs, and with her needle composes
Natures owne shape, of bud, bird, branch or berry,
That euen her art, sisters the naturall Roses,
Her Inckle, Silke, Twine, with the rubied Cherry,
That puples lackes she none of noble race,
Who poure their bounty on her, and her gaine
She giues the cursed Baud. Leaue we her place
And to her father turnd our thoughts againe,
Where we left him at sea tumbled and tost,
And driuen before the winde, he is ariude
Here where his daughter dwels, and on this Coast,
Suppose him now at Anchor: the Citty striude
God Neptune annuall feast to keepe, from whence
Lycimachus our Tyrian ship espies,
His banners sable, trimd with rich expence,
And to him in his Barge with feruour hies
In your supposing, once more put your sight
Of heauy Pericles, thinke this his Barke,
Where what is done in action (more if might
Shall be discouered, please you sit and harke. Exit

Enter Hellicanus with two Saylers.

1. Sayl. Where is the Lord Hellicanus? he can resolue you. O here he is Sir, there is the Barge put off from Metaline, and in it is Lysimachus the Gouernor, who craues to come aboard, what is your will?

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Hell. That he haue his, call vp some Gentlemen.

2. Sayl. Ho Gentlememen my Lord cals,

Enter two or three Gentlemen.

1. Gent. Doth your Lordship call;

Hell. Gentlemen, there is some of worth wold come aboard, I pray greet them fairely.

Enter Lysimachus.

1. Sayl. Sir, this is the man that can in ought you would, resolue you.

Lys. Haile reuerent sir, the Gods preserue you.

Hell. And you to out-liue the age I am, and die as I would doe.

Lys. You wish me well; being on shore, honoring of Neptunes triumphs, seeing this goodly vessell ride before vs, I made to it, to know of whence you are.

Hell. First, what is your place?

Lys. I am the Gouernor of this place, you lie before.

Hell. Sir, our vessel's of Tyre, in it the King, a man, who for this three months hath not spoken to any one, nor taken sustenance, but to prolong his griefe.

Lys. Vpon what ground is this distemperance?

Hell. It would be to tedious to repeate, but the maine griefe springs from the losse of a beloued daughter and a wife.

Lys. May we not see him?

Hell. You may, but bootlesse is your sight, he will not speake to any.

Lys. Let me obtaine my wish.

Hell, Behold him this was a goodly person, till the disaster that one mortall wight droue him to this.

Lys. Sir King, all haile, the Gods preserue you, haile royall Sir.

Hell. It is in vaine, he will not speake to you.

Lord. Sir, we haue a maid in Metaline, I durst wager would win some words of him.

Lys. 'Tis well be thought, she questionlesse with her sweete harmony, and other chosen attractions, would allure and make a battrie through his defended part, which now are mid-way stopt stopt, she is all happy, as the fairest of all, and her fellow maides, now vpon the leuie shelter that abutts against the Islands side.

Hell. Sure all effectlesse, yet nothing wee'l omit that beares recoueries name. But since your kindnesse we haue stretcht this farre, let vs beseech you, that for our gould we may haue prouision, wherein we are not destitute for want, but weary for the staleness.

Lys. O sir, a courtesie, which if we should deny, the most iust God for euery graffe would send a Caterpiller, and so inflict our Prouince: yet once more let mee entreat e to know at large the cause of your Kings sorrow.

Hell. Sit sir, I will recount it to you; but see, I am preuented.

Enter Marina.

Lys. O heere's the Lady that I sent for. welcome faire one: Ist not a goodly present?

Hell. Shee's a gallant Lady.

Lys. Shee's such a one, that were I well assurde,
Came of a gentle kinde and noble stocke,
Ide wish no better choise, and thinke me rarely wed,
Faire and all goodnesse that consists in beauty,
Expect euen heere, where is a kingly patient,
If that thy prosperous and artificiall fate,
Can draw him but to answer thee in ought,
Thy sacred Physicke shall receiue such pay,
As thy desires can wish.

Mar. Sir, I will vse my vttermost skill in his recouery, prouided, that none but I and my companion maide bee suffered to come neere him.

Lys. Come, let vs leaue her, and the Gods make her prosporous. The Song.

Lys. Marke he your musicke?

Mar. No, not lookt on vs.

Lys. See, she will speake to him.

Mar. Haile sir, my Lord, lend eare.

Per. Hum, ha.

Mar. I am a maid, my Lord, that ne're before inuited eies, but haue beene gazed on like a Comet: shee speakes my Lord, that may be, hath endured a griefe might equal yours, if both were iuſtly weighed, though wayward fortune did maligne my ſtate, my deriuation was from anceſtors who ſtood equiuolent with mighty Kings, but time hath rooted out my parentage, and to the world and aukward caſualties, bound me in ſeruitude. I will deſiſt but there is ſomething glowes vpon my cheek, and whiſpers in mine eare, Goe not till he ſpeake,

Per, My fortunes parentage, good parentage to equall mine; was it not thus, what ſay you?

Mar. I ſaide, my Lord, if you did know my parentage, you would not doe me violence.

Per. I do thinke ſo, pray you turne your eye vpon me, ye'are like ſome-thing that, what Country-women heare of theſe ſhewes?

Mar. No, nor of any ſhews, yet I was mortally brought foorth and am no other then I appeare.

Per. I am great with woe, and ſhalbe deliuered weeping: my deareſt wife was like this maid, and ſuch a one my daughter might haue beene: my Queenes ſquare browes, her ſtature to an inch, as wand-like ſtraite, as ſiluer voye'ſt, her eyes as iewell-like and caſt as richly, in pace another Iuno: Who ſtarues the eares ſhee feedes and makes them hungry, the more ſhe giues them ſpeech; where do you liue?

Mar. Where I am but a ſtranger from the decke, you may diſcerne the place.

Per. Where were you bred? and how atchieu'd you theſe endowments which you make more rich to owe?

Mar. If I ſhould tell my hiſtory it would ſeeme like lies diſdaind in the reporting.

Per. Prethee ſpeake, falſeneſſe cannot come from thee, for thou lookeſt modeſt as iuſtice, and thou ſeemſt a Pallas for the crownd truth to dwell in, I will beleeue thee, and make my ſenees credit thy relation, to points that ſeeme impoſſible, for thou lookſt like one I loued indeed; what were thy friends? Didſt thou not ſtay when I did puſh thee backe, which was when I perceiud thee that thou camſt from good diſcent.

Mar. So indeed I did.

Per.

Per. Report thy parentage, I thinke thou ſaidſt thou hadſt beene toſt from wrong to iniury, and that thou thoughts thy griefes might equall mine, if both were opened.

Mar. Some ſuch thing I ſaid, and ſaid no more, but what my thoughts did warrant me was likely.

Per. Tell thy ſtory, if thine conſidered prooue the thouſand part of my endnrance, thou art a man, and I haue ſuffered like a gyrle, yet thou doſt look like patience, gaxing on Kings graues, and ſmiling extreamity out of acte, what were thy friends? how loſt thou thy name my moſt kinde virgin? recount I do beſeech thee, Come ſit by me.

Mar. My name is Marina,

Per. Oh I am mockt, and thou by ſome inſenced God ſent hither to make the world to laugh me.

Mar. Patience good ſir, or heere ile ceaſe.

Per Nay Ile be patient, thou little knowſt how thou doeſt ſtartle me to call thy ſelfe Marina.

Mar. The name was giuen me by one that had ſame power my father and a King,

Per. How, a kings daughter and cald Marina,

Mar. You ſaid you would beleeue me, but not to be a trouble of your peace I will end here,

Per. But are you fleſh and bloud?
Haue you a working pulſe, and no Fairy?
Motion will ſpeake on, where were you borne:
And wherefore call Marina:

Mar. Cald Marina, for I was borne at ſea.

Per. At ſea who! was thy mother:

Mar. My mother was the daughter of a king, who dyed the minute I was borne, as my good Nurſe Lychorida hath oft deliuered weeping.

Per. O ſtop there a little, this is the rareſt dreame
That ere dull ſleepe did mocke ſad foole with all,
This cannot be my daughter, buried, well, where were yon bred:
Ile heare you more to the bottome of your ſtory, and neuer interrupt you.

Mar. You ſcorne, beleeue me twere beſt I did giue ore.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Per. I will beleeue you by the fillable of what you ſhall deliuer, yet giue me leaue, how came you in theſe parts? where were you bred?

Mar. The King my father did in Tharſus leaue me
Till cruell Cleon with his wicked wife,
Did ſeeke to murder me: and hauing wooed a villaine
To attempt it, who hauing drawne to doo't,
A crew of Pirats came and reſcued me,
Brought me to Metaline.
But good ſir, whether will you haue me? why do you weepe?
It may be you thinke me an impoſture, no good faith. I am the daughter of King Pericles, if good King Pericles be.

Per. Hoe, Hellicanus?

Hell. Calles my Lord?

Per. Thou art a graue and noble Councellor, Moſt wiſe in generall, tell me if thou canſt, what this maide is,
Or what is like to be, that thus hath made me weepe?

Hell. I know not but here's the regent ſir of Metaline, ſpeaks nobly of her.

Lyſ. ſhe neuer would tell her parentage,
Being demanded that ſhe would ſit ſtill and weepe.

Per. Oh Hellicanus, ſtrike me honored ſir, giue me a gaſh, put me to preſent paine, leaſt this great ſea of ioyes ruſhing vpon me ore-beare the ſhore of my mortality, and drowne me with their ſweetneſſe. Oh come hither,
Thou that begetſt him that did thee beget
Thou that waſt borne at ſea, buried at Tharſus,
And found at ſea againe: O Helleanus,
Downe on my knees thanke the ho y god as loud
As thunder threatens vs; this is Marina.
What was my mothers name? tell me but that,
For truth can neuer be confirmd enough,
Though doubts did euer ſleepe.

Mar. Firſt ſir, I pray what is your Title?

Per. I am Pericles of Tyre, but tell me now my Drownd Queenes name, as in the reſt you ſaid,
Thou haſt beene God-like perfect, the heire of Kingdomes, I

And

And another like to Pericles thy father.

Mar. Is it no more to be your daughter, then to ſay, my Mothers name was Thaiſa, Thaiſa was my mother, who did end the minute I began.

Per. Now bleſſing on thee, riſe, thou art my childe.
Giue me freſh garments, mine owne Hellicanus, ſhe is not dead at Tharſus, as ſhe ſhould haue bene by ſauage Cleon, ſhee ſhall tell the all, when thou ſhalt kneele, and iuſtifie in knowledge, ſhe is thy very Princes who is this?

Hell. Sir tis the Gouernor of Metaline, who hearing of your melancholy, did come to ſee you.

Per. I embrace you giue me my robes;
I am wild in my beholding. Oh heauen bleſſe my girle.
But hearke, what Muſicks this Hellicanus, my Marina,
Tell him ore point by point, for yet he ſeemes to dote,
How ſure you are my daughter, but whor's this Muſicke?

Hell. My Lord, I heare none.

Per. None, the Muſicke of the ſpheares, liſt my Marina.

Lyſ. It is not good to croſſe him giue him way.

Per. Rareſt ſounds do ye not heare?

Lyſ. Muſicke my Lord, I heare.

Per. Moſt heauenly muſicke
It nips me vnto liſtening, and thicke ſlumber
Hangs vpon mine eyes, let me reſt.

Lyſ. A pillow for his head, ſo leaue him all.
Well my companion friends, if this but anſwere to my iuſt beliefe, ile well remember you.

Diana.

Dian. My Temple ſtands in Epheſus,
Hie thee thether, and doe vpon mine Altar ſacrifice. There when my maiden prieſts are met together. before all the people reueale how thou at ſea didſt loſe thy wife, to mourne thy croſſe with thy daughters call and giue them repetition to the like, or performe my bidding, or thou liueſt in woe, doo't, and happy by my ſiluer bow, awake and tell thy dreame.

Per. Celeſtiall Dian Goddeſſe Argentine,
I will obey thee: Hellicanus. Hell. Sir.

Per.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Pericles (STC 22338) LONDON, 1630 THE BRITISH LIBRARY (C.34.k.39) Octavo

Per. My purpoſe was for Tharſus, there to ſtrike
The inhoſpitable Cleon, but I am for other ſeruice firſt,
Toward Epheſus turne our blowne ſailes,
Eftſoones Ile tell why, ſhall we refreſh vs ſir vpon your ſhore, and giue you gold for ſuch prouiſion as our intents will neede.

Lyſ. Sir, with all my heart, and when you come a ſhore,
I haue another ſleight.

Per. You ſhall preuaile, were it to woe my daughter, for it ſeemes you haue beene noble towards her.

Lyſ. Sir, lend me your arme.

Per. Come my Marina. Exeunt.

Enter Gower.

Now our ſands are almoſt run,
More a little, and then dum.
This my laſt boone giue me,
For ſuch kindneſſe muſt releeue me:
That you aptly will ſuppoſe.
What pageantry, what feates, what ſhewes,
What Minſtrelſie, what pretty din,
The Regent made in Metaline,
To greete the King; ſo he thriued,
That he is promiſed to be wiued
To faire Marina, but in no wiſe,
Till he had done his ſacrafice,
As Dian bad, whereto being bound,
The Interim pray, you all confound.
In fetherd briefeneſſe ſailes are fild,
And wiſhes fall out as thei'r wild.
At Epheſus the Temple ſee,
Our King and all his company.
That he can hither come ſo ſoone,
Is by your fancies thankfull doome. Exit.

Enter Pericles, Lyſimachus, Helicanus, Marina, and others.

Per. Haile Dian, to performe thy iuſt command,
I here confeſſe wy ſelfe the King of Tyre.
Who frighted from my Country, did wed at Pentapolis, the faire Thaiſa, at ſea in child bed died ſhe, but brought foorth a Maid

Maid childe called Marina, whom O Goddeſſe weares yet thy ſiluer liuery, ſhe at Thaſus was nurſt with Cleon, who at foure-teene yeares he ſought to murder, but her better ſtars brought her to Metaline, gainſt whoſe ſhore riding, her fortunes brought the maid aboord to vs where by her owne moſt cleare remembrance, ſhe made knowne ether ſelfe my daughter.

Tb. Voyce and fauour, you are, you are O royall Pericles.

Pe. What means the woman? ſhe dyes, helpe Gentlemen.

Cer. Sir if you haue told Dianaes Alter true, this is your wife.

Per. Reuerend appearer, no, I threw her ouer-boord with-theſe very armes.

Cer. Vpon this Coaſt, I warrant you.

Per. Tis moſt certaine.

Cer. Looke to the Lady; O ſhee's but ouerioyde, Earely in bluſtring morne, this Lady was throwne vpon this ſhore. I opened the Coffin, found theſe rich iewels, recouered her, and placed her heere in Dianaes Temple.

Per. May we ſee them?

Cer. Great ſir, they ſhall be brought you to my houſe, whether I inuite you, looke, Thaiſa is recouered.

Thai. O let me looke if he be none of mine, my ſanctity will to my ſence bend no licencious eare, but curb it ſpight of ſeeing:
O my Lord, are you not Pericles? like him you ſpeake, like him
you are: did you not name a tempeſt, a birth, and death?

Per. The voice of dead Thaiſa.

Thai. That Thaiſa am I, ſuppoſed dead and drownd.

Per. Immortall Dian!

Thai. Now I know you better, when wee with teares parted
Pentapolis, the King my Father gaue you ſuch a ring.

Per. This no more, you Gods, your preſent kindneſſe makes my paſt miſeries ſport, you ſhall do well that on the touching of her lips I may melt, and no more be ſeene; O come, be buried a ſecond time within theſe armes.

Mar. My heart leaps to be gone into my mothers boſome.

Per. Looke who kneeles heere, fleſh of thy fleſh Thaiſa, thy burden at the ſea, and call'd Marina, for ſhe was yeelded there.

Thai. Bleſt, and mine owne,

Hell. Haile Madam, and my Queene.

Thai. I know you not.

Per. You haue heard me say when I did flye from Tyre, I left behind an ancient substitude; can you remember what I cald the man, I haue namde him of?

Thai. Twas Hellicanus then.

Per. Still confirmation, embrace him deare Thaisa, this is hee, now do I long to heare how you were found? how possibly preserued? and who to thanke (besides the Gods) for this great miracle?

Thai. Lord Cerimon my Lord, this man through whom the Gods shewne their power, that can from first to last resolue you.

Per. Reuerent Sir the Gods can haue no mortall officer more like a God then you, will you deliuer how his dead Queene reliues?

Cer. I will my Lord, beseech you first goe with me vnto my house. where shall be shewne you all was found with her, how she came plac'st heere in the temple, no needfull thing ommitted

Per. Puer Dian blesse thee for thy vision, and will offer night oblations to thee; Thaisa this Prince, the faire bethrothed of your daughter, shall marry her at Pentapolis, and now this ornament that makes me looke dismall, will I clip to forme, and what this fourteene yeares no razor touch to grace thy marriage day, Ile beautifie.

Thai. Lord Cerimon hath letters of good credit, Sir, my father's dead.

Per. Heauens make a star of him, yet there my Queene, weele celebrate their Nuptiall, and our selues will in that Kingdome spend our following dayes; our sonn and daughter shall in Tyrus

Lord Cerimon, we do our longing stay,
To heare the rest vntolde, Sir, leads the way.

Exunt omnes.

Enter Gower.

In Antiochus and his daughter, you haue heard
Of monstrous lust, the due and Iust reward:

Pericles, his Queene and daughter seene,
Though assaylde with Fortune fierce and keene
Vertue preferd from fell destructions blast,
Led on by heauen, and crownd with ioy at last.
In Hellicanus may you well descry,
A figure of truth, of faith of loyalty:
In reuerend Cerimon there well appeares,
The worth that learned charity aye weares
For wicked Cleon and his wife, when fame
Had spread their cursed deed, the honord name
Of Pericles, to rage the Citty turne,
That him and his, they in his Pallace burne:
The gods for murder seemed so content
To punish although not done, but meant.
So, on your patience euermore attending,
New ioy waite on you heere our play hath ending
